4 Perish as Jet Explodes in Air

LITTL ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A six-engine jet bomber exploded over Little Rock today, showering flaming wreckage and death in its plunge near the state Capitol.

An Air Force spokesman reported three crewmen were killed. At least one civilian man died in a house fire touched off by debris. A woman was reported trapped in her burning home.

Burned Seriously

One airman parachuted to safety but was burned seriously.

The B47 jet was on an early morning mission from Little Rock Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command installation.

Reports persisted that the jet collided with a light plane over the small town of Mayflower, 15 miles north of Little Rock, and roared on into Little Rock.

At least seven frame homes were destroyed as portions of the bomber dug a fiery 25-foot grave near the Capitol building.

Bodies of two crewmen were pulled out of fuselage wreckage which crashed into a house in the fashionable Pulaski Heights district, two miles from the Capitol.

Trapped in Home

It was there that Mrs. A. L. Clark, an elderly woman, was reported trapped in her flaming home.

An Air Force spokesman at a command post set up at the crater near the Capitol said a third airman's body had been recovered.

The air base said four crewmen were aboard. One, 1st Lt. Thomas G. Smoak, parachuted into the residential area. He was taken to Arkansas Baptist Hospital, his condition serious.

Other crewmen were Capt. Herbert J. Aldridge, Lt. Col. Reynolds J. Watson and Staff Sgt. K. E. Brose. Home towns were not released.

The body of the civilian, Jimmie Grove, 26, was recovered from his home near the eight-foot deep crater dug by part of the plane. Nothing was left of Grove's house except the foundation.

Firemen said three homes near the Capitol were so badly seared by flames that they didn't see how anyone could survive. Rescue work was hampered by flames which took firemen several hours to control.

The Air Force had no word of a collision. Neither did the air control tower at Adams Field, Little Rock's municipal airport. The control tower reported the jet was the only plane it knew of in the vicinity.

Dietz Land Change to Be Aired

Board, Aldermen Confer Tonight

Final procedure and detail pertinent to transfer of 3.5 acres of Dietz Stadium property to the education board for the building of a junior high school were slated to be discussed at a meeting of board members and a special Common Council committee in the office of Mayor Edwin F. Radel at 7:30 p. m. today.

Home rule legislation has been enacted to permit the transfer, and since that action a possible change in sentiment among aldermen has been rumored, but inquiries today revealed that councilmen, who might change their vote remain noncommittal.

Vote Due April 5

The council is expected to vote at its April 5 meeting on actual deeding of the property. A three-fourths vote is required.

Alderman Donald M. Hastings, (D) Third Ward, staunchest opponent of the transfer, and William G. Davis (D-L) 13th Ward, are expected to continue opposed to use of the stadium property for school purposes.

Joseph Tomaszewski (D) Sixth Ward, who at first voted against the transfer, but who voted for the required home rule measure March 15, indicated today that he has not yet made a final decision.

Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, who has argued for sprinkler systems as fire protection in the schools, said he was noncommittal, at least until after tonight's meeting, and Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward, who also favors sprinkler protection, said he was not prepared yet to commit himself definitely.

Mayor Radel, Council President Harold L. Kaye, and Alderman Koenig, who is not a member of the special committee, were due to attend the meeting. Koenig said he had been invited because of his stand on sprinkler systems.

Council Favors Transfer

The council voted 9-3 March 1 in favor of the transfer with Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, absent. Opposing were Hastings, Tomaszewski and Davis. Only Davis and Hastings remained opposed when the council voted March 15 for the home rule measure. Schrowang joined the other three Republican members in voting for the measure.

The education board will be represented in whole or part. All of its members were invited to attend.

U.N. WARNED — Bernardus Gerhardus Fourie challenged the United Nations before he led his South African delegation out of the world body's Security Council. The delegation chief told the Council that U.N. action against African racial killings "might in the future recoil against other member states." South Africa, although not a Council member, was invited to speak on the issue. (NEA Telephoto)

Encouraging, Is Soviet Reaction to Test Plan

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and Britain formally submitted the Camp David plan for a nuclear test ban to the Soviet Union today.

The plan challenged the Soviet Union to remove the obstacles to a partial test ban treaty by agreeing to control details.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the Western proposals are "an encouraging step forward," but require extensive clarification.

He told newsmen he will submit questions on the plan at subsequent meetings of the three-power treaty negotiations after the Camp David proposals, worked out by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, have been studied in Moscow.

Zorin Proposes Treaty

In the 10-nation disarmament conference, also sitting in Geneva, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin proposed that a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests be linked to a promise from world powers to renounce aggression and use of atomic and hydrogen weapons. He said these steps should be taken in advance of a general disarmament treaty.

If this approach is accepted, Zorin said, it will open the way to solution of the nuclear problem as a whole and represent "an important act of confidence."

West Is Critical

The Western powers described Zorin's move as an attempt to commit them to a moral obligation which cannot be enforced.

Zorin made his proposal only a few hours before the United States and Britain planned to challenge the Soviet Union promptly to conclude an enforceable test ban treaty.

The plan, worked out by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was to be introduced at the resumption this afternoon of the three-power test ban conference. The conference recessed last week to await results of the Eisenhower-Macmillan meeting at Camp David, Md.

The Western plan calls for a detailed system of international controls to be worked out before a test ban treaty is signed. In the 71 months delegates of the three nations have been meeting here, considerable progress has been made on a control organization, although major points of disagreement remain.

No Official Reaction

There was no official Soviet reaction to the American proposal in advance of its presentation to the conference. But the Russian delegation's chief scientific adviser gave what could be an indication that the Russians would continue to demand immediate agreement on a ban, with controls to be worked out later.

In a statement to the Soviet news agency Tass, Fyodorov urged the United States to agree at once to a treaty so that control methods could be developed by practical experience.

"The practical realization of a control system and the experience of this work will be of much greater use for improving the methods (of detecting banned blasts) than protracted discussions," the Soviet scientist said.

Fyodorov also said the Soviet Union had never set off an underground nuclear explosion.

The two Western powers promise that with the signing of a treaty, they will join the Soviet

Ashokan Rising, Cool Air To Ease Threat of Floods

Rains and melting snows have swollen streams throughout the East, including the Hudson valley area and Ulster County, with Ashokan Reservoir up more than two billion gallons during the past 24 hours.

Rising waters in New York State will be eased, however, by cooling conditions which are expected to halt the rapid thaw now in progress, according to weather bureau reports. Occasional showers are anticipated in the state.

Situation Not Alarming

Water in the west basin of Ashokan Reservoir rose approximately one foot during the past 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today. It is still half a foot below the spillway, however.

The situation is not alarming, but characteristic of normal spring freshet conditions.

Water was reported "roaring" over Cantine Dam in the village of Saugerties this morning and the Esopus creek is over its banks in some areas.

The creek is reported to be nearing flood stage in some spots in the Glenerie area. The Glenerie falls are completely covered by the Esopus flow. The water is described as muddy and full of debris.

High Tide at 4:36 p. m.

The New York City Water Department here reported an inch of rain at its Brown Station during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m., today and .64 inches at Prattsvile.

High tide on Rondout creek is due at 4:36 p. m. today.

Heavy fog was reported throughout the county during the night, but no vehicular accidents were reported.

Troopr Richard Ryan of the Kingston state police said there was a "lot of fog" which slowed traffic, but no mishaps.

Cpl. Russell Dauch of the Ellenville barracks also reported heavy fog and poor visibility in that area, with one car slipping into a ditch.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky of the Highland station said the area was quite foggy during the night but that traffic was not impeded.

SALAMANCA, N. Y. (AP)—Most of western and south-central New York had damp feet today, but high hopes of missing floods nurtured by a two-day thaw and scattered rain storms.

At Perilous Stage

The Allegheny River here, bloated by melting snows and water from its raging tributaries, inched to a perilous 1,370.15 feet above sea level Wednesday, but eased off shortly before midnight. The flood stage here is 1,370 feet.

While extreme flooding emergencies subsided with the ebbing waters, minor water troubles marked the section.

Numerous highways were closed to traffic as streams and creeks spilled their banks. Farmlands, turned into soggy marshes, drained into roads.

Two persons were injured slightly near Seneca Falls when their automobile plunged into usually placid Crane Brook when a bridge collapsed.

Plane Ditches, 3 Die

11 Others Rescued in Canaveral Area

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — An Air Force tanker plane ditched in the dark 40 miles out in the ocean and three of the 14 men aboard perished. Rescue craft pulled 11 others from the water.

The destroyer Sullivans was expected to dock at Port Canaveral within the hour with 10 of the survivors. One man was brought to shore by helicopter.

Furnishes Own Beacon

Flare-shooting, flashlight-blinking men in the water furnished their own beacons for ships and planes that went to their rescue after the big Tampa-based Stratotanker came down Wednesday night on Atlantic swells 40 miles east of Cape Canaveral, the missile test center.

The Air Force said the surface craft would bring their survivors to Port Canaveral. Conditions of these men were not listed.

Lt. John Rogers, about 25, first rescuee, was brought to Patrick AFB by helicopter four hours after the tanker plane hit the sea. His condition was termed good.

The Navy destroyer Sullivans picked up five men and a commercial wine tanker, the Angelo Petri, rescued three. Another surface craft, not identified, took on two survivors. Their names and conditions were not at once known.

Spied in Darkness

Rescue pilots spied floating crewmen in life jackets and rubber rafts in the darkness three hours after their KC97 stratotanker went down on a flight from Newfoundland to its home station, MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa.

Helicopters and the surface ship immediately began a pickup operation in moderately calm seas with flares lighting up the darkness.

The tanker plane hit the sea about 8:30 p.m. after radioing it was preparing to ditch, reportedly because of engine trouble.

Rescue pilots reported that wreckage of the ditched four-engine plane still was afloat.

The rescue craft continued crisscrossing the area through the night, searching for other survivors.

Jaycees Ask Vote On Bag Warnings

William Aumand, secretary of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced today that letters have been sent to Senator Odgen J. Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, urging their support of Senate Bill 799 and Assembly Bill 998. These bills will make it mandatory that a warning statement be imprinted upon thin plastic bags, the type currently in common usage by laundries and dry cleaning establishments.

In making the Jaycee action known, Aumand pointed out that the letters had the unanimous approval of the local membership. Additional action is being studied because young children cannot read and understand warning labels.

Electronic Brains Will Speed Count

18th Census Biggest of Its Kind; Cost to U.S. About $118 Million

Area residents are urged by Census Bureau officials to cooperate fully with census takers who begin their work tomorrow, and District Supervisor R. Frank Vacca appeals to all persons to have the forms filled out and ready for the enumerator.

The Census Bureau estimates that as many as 180 million persons will be enumerated in the United States during the 18th decennial census, biggest project ever undertaken by the Census Bureau. The 1960 census is expected to be the best census, in terms of completeness, speed, and efficiency since the first 170 years ago.

The first census in 1790, showed there were 3,929,214 persons living ini the United States, and cost the U. S. a little more than $44,000. This year, the job is expected to cost $118 million and would cost more without the electronic brains.

The Constitution of the United States authorizes the decennial census of population, for the purpose of determining the number of representatives to which each state is entitled in Congress.

Since the first census in 1790 there have been laws that deal sternly with anyone who clams up, or who knowingly lies in answering each question on the census form. Area residents are urged to weigh each question and then write in a truthful answer.

The trained enumerators are instructed to keep calm and try to persuade the balker gently, without threats. Failing to do this, he duly reports to the crew leader, who then tries to persuade the individual. If he, too, is frustrated, the field supervisor will lend his authority, and if he fails, the threat of the federal marshal and the U. S. attorney's office is invoked.

Information given to the census taker is confidential. Enumerators are sworn to secrecy, and heavy penalties are provided should they violate their oath. Information obtained in the census can be published only in statistical totals in which no individual can be identified, and information obtained cannot be used for purpose of taxation, investigation or regulation.

Tomorrow area census takers will start work. Mrs. Pearl K. Bond, of Spaulding Lane, Saugerties, is their leader who attended training sessions for leaders earlier in the month at

Kingston C-H Employes Gain Safety Citation

Kingston District electric operating employes of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation were presented Wednesday with the electric utility industry's highest safety recognition and were lauded by company officials for their record of almost six years of safe work performance.

In February the Kingston group became the first Central Hudson unit to amass one million man-hours without a disabling injury. The employes were honored at a special dinner last night at The Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties and were presented with the Edison Electric Institute Safety Achievement Award.

The group, which includes Central Hudson electric operating and office personnel in Kingston, Saugerties and Honk Falls worked without a disabling injury from April 15, 1954 and passed the one-million man-hour mark on last February 17.

A letter of praise and appreciation from Company President Ernest R. Acker was read at the dinner. Kingston District Superintendent Robert Atkinson presided over the program which included laudatory remarks by Distribution Division Manager

5 Are Killed In Blast at Gas Station

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—A violent explosion turned a gas station into a large pit filled with debris Wednesday night. Five died in the blast, which demolished the 30-by-40 foot cinder block building.

Two women, residents of an apartment building next door, were injured.

Three Are Firemen

Three of the dead were firemen who had been summoned to the station in downtown Auburn because of a gasoline odor. They and two employes were inside the building when it disintegrated. The five bodies were recovered.

Firemen said employes of the station had been using gasoline to wash a grease rack. However, firemen said it had not been determined what set off the explosion.

The blast shattered windows within two blocks of the station. All the windows in the First Universalist Church, across the street, and in the three-story apartment building were shattered.

Cinder blocks were scattered 50 to 100 feet away.

Occupants Evacuated

Occupants of the apartments were evacuated.

The dead firemen were Lt. Alfred Murphy, 52, John Searing, 27, and Anthony Contrera, 36.

Also killed were Walter Ockenfels, who operated the station for the R. J. Connor Oil Co., and John Bell, a Connor employe.

Injured were Mrs. Ida Yeaple and Mrs. Mabel Bills. Mrs. Bills was released after treatment at Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Yeaple was reported in fair condition.

Connor estimated damage to his property at $50,000.

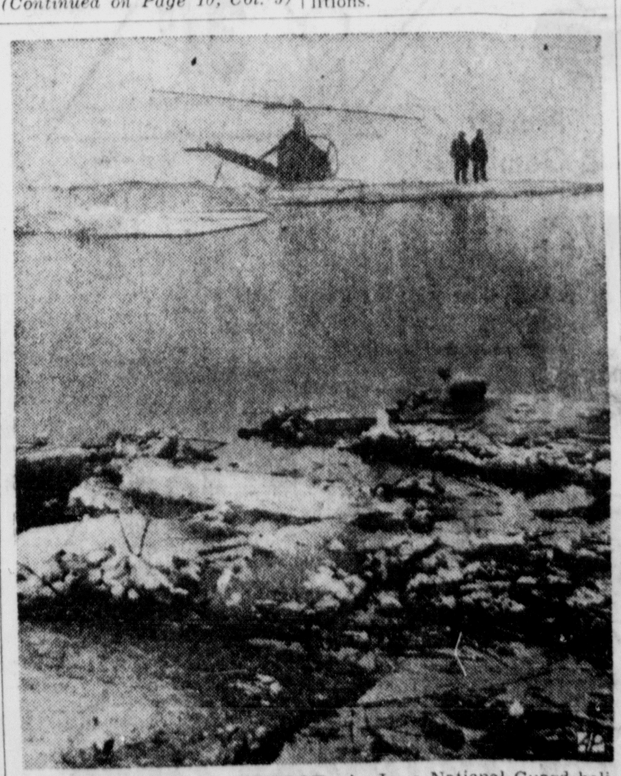

Estimates of damage to other property were not available.

$100,000 Building Gain Is Reported

Building Inspector Joseph F. Smith today reported local construction and repair for the first three months of the year about $100,000 above that in the same period of 1959.

Of 26 permits issued, he said, at an estimated total construction cost of $167,503, four were for new buildings listed at a cost of $126,000.

Six permits were issued for additions at $25,178, and five for alterations at $7,000. Four permits were issued for new garages at $5,150 and four for heat installations at $4,175. Three permits were issued for demolitions.

CRASH LAND ON ICE FLOE—An Iowa National Guard helicopter on flood inspection duty crash landed on an ice floe in the swollen Des Moines River. The fliers managed to clamber to shore at Lehigh, Ia., after riding the floe for an hour and a half. The copter was lost. The fliers, Lt. Col. Milford Juhl, 42, the pilot, and Maj. Lytle R. Jones, observer, were unhurt. (AP Wirephoto)

Four Cases Pending on Kickbacks

Ryan Motion Due In Albany Court

The end of the two year old Ulster County "kickback" probe appeared to be in sight today when a $50,000 item for "the trial of all existing indictments heretofore returned" and the "conduct of any appeals resulting therefrom" was included in the supplemental budget which was presented today for passage.

No Budget Fund

No funds were made available for continuing the probe in the annual 1960-61 budget and at that time it was reported funds would be made available in the supplemental budget if required. The appropriation for the 1959-60 fiscal year which ends today was $150,000. What sum was requested in the attorney general's budget request for the continuation of the Ulster County investigation has never been made public but it is reported to have been $200,000.

In allocating $50,000 for the Ulster County investigation, the language of the legislation states "for services and expenses for the trial of all existing indictments heretofore returned in the Ulster County investigation and the conduct of any appeals resulting therefrom $50,000."

4 Indictments Remain

There are four indictments awaiting disposition. Pleas of innocent have been entered by Marlboro Town Superintendent of Highways Rocco Benevento, who is charged with conspiracy; pleas of innocent have also been entered in the Harry Bareika, Harry Bareika, Inc., Walter Truck Company and Rand-MacMurray Corporation joint conspiracy indictment. An appeal is still pending from the Edwin W. Ashby perjury conviction and the Morgan D. Ryan conspiracy indictment is also in the Appellate Court.

Scandal Opened Probe

The Ulster County probe first came into being when former State Commissioner of Investigation Arthur Reuter began an informal investigation into Ulster County affairs when a Kingston police scandal broke.

Started in 1957

The Reuter probe, instituted in 1957, was succeeded by the present probe being conducted by

Conference Held At Chambers on School Lunches

Some 70 persons representing seven counties attended an all-day regional conference for school lunch managers Wednesday at the Chambers School.

Theme of the conference, sponsored by the Bureau of Home Economics Education of the State Education Department, was "Developing Quality in Records and Reports."

Topics discussed were school lunch management and records, determining meal costs, and preparation of records. This was one of a number of regional conferences held throughout the state.

Attending were school lunch managers from Columbia, Dutchess, Sullivan, Rockland, Orange, Greene and Ulster Counties.

Miss Helen L. Diehl of the State Education Department presided. Franklin Hazard, assistant superintendent of schools for the Kingston School District (Consolidated), and Reginald Russell, principal of the Chambers School, presided.

Billings G. Burlingame, representing the Division of School Business Management, State Education Department, spoke on school lunch management and records, explaining what records are necessary and how well-kept records can help in the operation of a more efficient school lunch program.

Mohawk Seeking U. S. Grants for Aid During Strike

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — Mohawk Airlines, which grounded its planes after a brief strike, is seeking a federal grant of $271,000 a month for each month it is shut down.

Frank R. Chabot, Mohawk treasurer, said Wednesday night the money was to cover part of the losses incurred by the closing.

Chabot said the airline, in a separate request, sought a two-million-dollar increase in its annual subsidy from the federal government. Both requests, he said, were before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Mohawk cancelled its flights in seven states March 18, the day after stewardesses struck for two hours. Mohawk pilots honored their picket lines.

Mohawk suspended the pilots and charged they had violated their contract by refusing to cross the picket lines.

Chabot, in a statement at Mo- subsidy of slightly less than two million-dollar increase in the annual subsidy was "expressly for new routes recently awarded to the airline and to cover increases in operational expenses."

The airline currently received a subsidy of slightly les sthan two million dollars a year, Chabot said.

Even with the increase, Chabot said, Mohawk still would be one of the lowest subsidized airlines in the industry.

Power Authority Now Has Access To Indian Lands

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The State Power Authority has been awarded full access to about 550 acres of Tuscarora land for use in the Niagara Power Project.

Federal Judge Harold P. Burke made the ruling Wednesday.

As a result, Indians living in that particular section of the reservation must vacate their homes immediately. The SPA previously had access to the land but workmen were not permitted near the homes.

Two weeks ago, the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that the Indians would have to give up 1,383 acres for the project's reservoir. The decision apparently ended a two-year court battle, but Monday an attorney for the Indians said they planned to petition for a re-arguing of the case.

The SPA since revealed it would need only 550 acres for the work.

No compensation has been set for the land, but the authority already has posted $2,000,000 with the federal court here.

Proposes Waterway To Tie River, Ontario

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-NY) proposes development of a major waterway to link Lake Ontario with the Hudson River.

Stratton, in testimony prepared for an Army Engineers hearing here, urged construction Wednesday of additional waterways in the state to help the Barge Canal meet competition from the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The St. Lawrence Seaway has taken business away from the Barge Canal, Stratton said. He added:

"There would be substantial support for a program which would help to arrest this decline of business and which would channel into our area . . . a greater share of business activity which is now being diverted outside the state through the St. Lawrence Seaway."

It would be "clearly disastrous," he said, if any development of the river were to adversely affect recreation areas along its banks.

He cited Mainas at Schenectady, St. Johnsville and Amsterdam.

Ike Looks Forward To Different Type Of Summit in Paris

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is looking forward to a different kind of summit conference at Paris next May.

He wants some sessions to provide for strictly private conversations among himself, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, French President Charles de Gaulle and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Intriguing Prospects

The President's interest in getting the Big Four to "explore each other's minds" emerged at his news conference Wednesday. His statements to reporters also developed another intriguing prospect for the future:

The Eisenhower administration seems destined to become increasingly in its closing months a kind of caretaker government. Eisenhower did not use any such term as that but in replying to a question about the possibility of a second summit conference late this year, he noted that more and more questions would arise about his ability to make commitments running beyond the end of his term next January.

Ready to Meet Crisis

At the same time, however, he left no doubt that if a crisis should arise he intends to take whatever measures are necessary to meet it.

But Eisenhower's own concept probably means that at the Paris conference he will be looking for ways to solve only the more immediate East-West problems and in such a way that there would be little doubt of his successor's interest in carrying on.

Whether from a practical point of view there are such possibilities, with respect to the long deadlocked issues of German reunification, the future of West Berlin and the major problems of disarmament, is a serious question which only the four men at the summit can answer.

It seems likely that another effect of the terminal date on the President's powers may be to inhibit the administration from embarking on any bold new course or trying any fundamentally new initiative in negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Last One in 1955

The last summit conference was held at Geneva in 1955. The meetings were larger than those the President would like to see at least on some occasions at Paris.

While the leaders of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union met informally at Geneva and sometimes talked casually over a drink, their business discussions were all held in the presence of at least some of their advisers.

Eisenhower deplored this kind of arrangement Wednesday, saying that when the meetings are held in a room crowded with people the four leaders are "talking at everybody else, instead of talking with them... they are talking to their own constitutents... doing as good a propaganda job as they can."

What he prefers is "four men sitting around the table with their interpreters and, without anybody having any checks of any kind, (trying to) see if they can, by exploring each other's minds (find out) 'What do you really want to do? What could we do?'"

Davis Bids Rocky Sign Bill Ending Dated Containers

The Ulster County Farm Bureau has urged Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to sign into law a bill which would abolish dating of milk and cream containers, it was reported today.

In a telegram to the Governor, Philip H. Davis, president of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, said: "I strongly urge you to sign Milk Dating Bill abolishing dating of milk and cream containers in New York City as approved by the New York City Board of Health. Dating of milk is unsound, antiquated and consumption impeding and should be eliminated."

Sandy to Get Chance In Vegas Chorus Line

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Coed Sandy Cherniss, whose 41-24-37 measurements distracted male students at San Francisco City College, is getting a chance to prove her distraction is an attraction.

The Sahara Hotel is putting her in the chorus line on a week's tryout basis.

If she measures up—talent-wise—she gets the $250 a week job permanently, a hotel spokesman said.

Sandy drew national notice recently when San Francisco City College officials complained her natural endowments were diverting male students from their studies.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 31, 1960

CENSUS STARTS TOMORROW

The 1960 census of population and housing, the Nation's 18th decennial nose count, will get underway tomorrow in Kingston and Ulster County and in every community, large and small, in the country.

Tomorrow 160,000 census takers will start their rounds which will take them to every dwelling unit in the United States. In covering the three and a half million square miles of land area of the fifty states, the census takers will travel an estimated combined distance or more than 1,000 times around the world, or about twenty-eight million miles.

Residents of this and all other areas can speed up the big count by having their advance report forms filled out and ready for the census takers. This action will save time for both householder and the census taker. The forms, which have been distributed to every home, contains seven population and six housing questions which are asked of all persons. By distributing the forms in advance, residents are given a chance to assemble information about each member of the family before the arrival of the census taker.

At every fourth household, the census taker will leave a census household questionnaire which contains additional questions covering population and housing characteristics, which are being asked of a 25 per cent sample of the population. Householders are requested to fill out the household questionnaire and mail it within three days to the local census district office.

All information about individuals and their homes will be held in absolute confidence under Federal law, and will be used only to provide summary figures such as totals, averages and percentages.

The Constitution of the United States authorizes the decennial census of population for the purpose of determining the number of representatives to which each state is entitled in Congress.

The statistics resulting from the census effect public policy and important business decisions. In fact, census statistics are basic to much planning in the Federal government and in the more than 100,000 separate governmental units within the United States. They also are familiar working tools in the research and planning departments of practically all kinds of business organizations.

Use of the advance reports will help speed up the field canvass and also provide more accurate statistics. Every householder should see to it that these forms are filled out completely by the time the census taker arrives.

SYMBOL OF CHANGE . . .

Only some 15 years have flowed under the bridge of time since Hitler and his Nazi ideology was crushed, but West Germany and its leaders continue every evidence of subscribing to the West's democratic way of life.

The latest note of this sort was approval by Bonn for screening in Germany of "Tomorrow the World," an American film made during World War II to dramatize the victory of democratic ideas over Nazism.

Fifteen years is but a moment in history and many of the film's viewers will be adults who in 1945 were the core of Hitler's Youth Movement, around which the film evolves. Decision to show a film which depicts Germany's shameful period under Nazism requires courage and a resolve to place Germany squarely in the community of democratic nations.

It is hoped that the film's antidiscrimination message will prove a strong deterrent to any more swastika outbreaks such as recently plagued Germany.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE RETURN OF THE TEN

The Hollywood Ten were a noisy, recalcitrant group of motion picture writers, etc., who were called to Washington to testify before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in October, 1947. They flew into Washington with an enormous display of Hollywood press agentry. Actually there were more than 10, but the group went by that name.

A distinction must be made between the Hollywood Ten, who were Communists, and the Committee for the First Amendment which included many who were not Communists. John Howard Lawson, the Communist commissar, in Hollywood was responsible for the organization of both groups.

The Hollywood Ten were: Adrian Scott, Edward Dmytryk, Lester Cole, Ring Lardner Jr., Dalton Trumbo, John Howard Lawson, Albert Maltz, Alvah Bessie, Samuel Ornitz and Herbert Biberman. They were contemptuous of Congress and by a vote of 346 to 17, the House of Representatives so held them.

On November 24, 1947, the organized motion picture industry, the Motion Picture Association of America, the Association of Motion Picture Producers, and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers met at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York to deal with the problem that this industry, which depends upon public good-will, was harboring enemies of this country. The gist of their resolution was:

"We will forthwith discharge or suspend without compensation those in our employ and we will not re-employ any of the ten until such time as he is acquitted or has purged himself of contempt and declares under oath that he is not a Communist.

"On the broader issue of alleged subversive and disloyal elements in Hollywood, our members are likewise prepared to take positive action.

"We will not knowingly employ a Communist or a member of any party or group which advocates the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods."

Some companies lived up to this resolution rigidly and at considerable sacrifice. Others were not so enthusiastic. But it was a period of intense anti-Communism and popular opinion was in support of getting rid of Reds. Even such a figure as Charles Chaplain was caught in this wave of Patriotism.

On the other hand, Right-Wing writers, directors and actors as well as those who had left the Party were refused employment. Such Rightist actors as Ward Bond and Adolphe Menjou, to cite examples, were as black-listed as any Communist. It was a fight.

A private committee was organized outside the industry as a clearing house for accurate information. As a result, a system was set up by which a person could state his own case to the studio which employed him. A large number who had been accused of Communist participation were thus enabled to return to work. On the other hand, means were established to discover liars and infiltrators.

The great power and influence of the Communists in the performing arts made itself manifest when it was discovered that some producers, especially the independent ones, were secretly employing known Communists to write scripts for pictures. This came out into the open when an unknown Robert Rich won an Oscar award which he did not come forward to claim. It was rumored that he was one of the Hollywood Ten. It turned out to be Dalton Trumbo.

A change had taken place in the business practices of Hollywood. The great studios found it more profitable to rent out their stages to so-called independent companies which are not bound by their agreements and practices. The independents are, however, often financed by the great studios. It is principally the independents who hire Communists.

The most startling was the hiring of Albert Maltz by Frank Sinatra. This so shocked the industry that it reopened all the quarrels of 1947 and started boycott movements. The independents adopted an irreconcilable attitude. To use Sinatra's words:

". . . As the producer of the film, I, and I alone will be responsible for it. I accept that responsibility. I ask only that judgment be deferred until the picture is seen. . . ."

The larger companies are worried because they have felt the lash of public opinion before. The independents are often fly-by-night outfits that put money into a picture and either make a killing or go broke. Ultimately, the great studios will bear the burden as the independents do not have the same responsibility.

Maxims Reflect Greatness Of Sir William Osler

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Several readers have asked me to tell them something of the medical careers of Sir William Osler and Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes to whom I have made occasional reference.

Sir William was born just over 100 years ago in Weston, a few miles west of Toronto. He was educated in Canada at Trinity College School and McGill University where he received his M.D. in 1872.

After a few years of European study, he became professor of medicine at McGill. After 10 years, he was called to the University of Pennsylvania where he served for five years before he joined with Dr. William Welch and his colleagues to found the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in Baltimore.

With Hopkins well established, Dr. Osler accepted the chair of regius professor of medicine at Oxford where he remained until his death on Dec. 29, 1919. He was created a baronet in 1911 for his many services to the British Empire.

For present purposes, it is not possible to do more than sample Sir William's wisdom. The following epigrams are taken from the book of "Osler Aphorisms," collected by Drs. Robert and William Bennett Bean published by Henry Schuman, Inc., New York:

Medicine is a science of uncertainty and an art of probability.

The art of the practice of medicine is to be learned only by experience. Learn to see, hear, feel, smell and know that by practice alone can you become expert.

There are incurable diseases in medicine, incorrigible vices in the ministry, insoluble cases in law.

I do not know at what age one dare call a woman a spinster.

Ignorance is the conceit that a man knows what he does not know!

The great republic of medicine knows and has known no national boundaries.

Nickel-in-the-slot, press-the-button therapeutics are no good. You cannot have a drug for every malady.

Remember how much you do not know. Do not pour strange medicines into your patient.

One of the first duties of the physician is to educate the masses not to take medicine.

If many drugs are used for a disease, all are insufficient.

Nothing in life is more wonderful than faith, the one great moving force which we can neither weigh in the balance nor test in the crucible.

Confidence and hope do more good than physics —"he cures most in whom most are confident."

Nothing will sustain you more potently than the power to recognize in your humdrum routine, as perhaps it may be thought, the true poetry of life—the poetry of the commonplace, of the ordinary man, of the plain, toil-worn woman, with their loves and their joys, their sorrows and their griefs.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Vice President Nixon intends to do no extensive political campaigning till after he has that nomination handed to him on a platter at the GOP convention.

There are several reasons why Nixon feels he should not be away from Washington for more than a day or two at a time.

President Eisenhower will be at the summit in Paris in May and visiting Khrushchev in June.

So the number two man will have to stay and tend the store, since Congress will be in session through June.

THIS INTERVAL IN WASHINGTON gives Nixon good opportunity to do his homework for the fall campaign.

What he is doing to shape his farm program is typical.

For the time being, he is supporting the Eisenhower farm proposals. This gives congress the chance to pass a farm bill the President can sign.

But if Congress does not buy that line—and the chances now seem slim—Nixon can be expected to break with Agriculture Secretary Benson's policies.

In the meantime, the vice president has brought in two western ranchers to do some grass-roots investigating. They are Ray Arbuthnot, a California and Nevada cattle man and Ray Brock, a California grain man.

They have already made field trips to i[illegible] farmers in Iowa and Wisconsin.

The old[illegible] organizations have been trying to get a foot in the door on this operation.

But Nixon wants a fresh point of view.

He believes that present farm policies, based on World War II programs, are outmoded. He thinks change is needed and he intends to offer it to the voters.

OTHER MEMBERS OF IKE'S CABINET are active in helping Nixon shape his campaign program, in varying degrees.

Closest to the vice president are Attorney General William P. Rogers and Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton. They have campaigned with him since 1952, and will be among his closest campaign advisers in 1960.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield former GOP national chairman, is also working with Nixon on strategy for the coming campaign.

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell and Health Education Welfare Secretary Arthur S. Flemming got into the act later.

Mitchell worked with Nixon on the steel strike settlement.

Flemming has been working with him for broader social security and old age health programs which Eisenhower has so far refused to accept.

Secretary of State Herter served in Congress with Nixon and nominated him for the vice presidency in 1956. But he and Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates have to keep out of politics as much as possible, in furtherance of nonpartisan foreign and defense policy aims.

COMMERCE SECRETARY FREDERICK H. MUELLER, another more recent arrival, has been working with Nixon on the Cabinet Economic Committee. He is active in politics. He makes frequent speeches before business groups, often in praise of Nixon.

Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, most conservative of all the Cabinet members, is also the least political-minded.

He has been registered Republican only since 1956. But in his January "Salute to the President" speech at Cleveland, where he was introduced by former Sec. George M. Humphrey, Anderson praised Nixon's leadership, and is counted on his team.

Seaton, Rogers, Mitchell and Flemming are all considered vice presidential material to run with Nixon this year.

Whichever one of them the convention might pick, the chances are good that the others would be found in Nixon's administration.

Along Capitol Corridors

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Two commissions created by the 1960 Legislature will tackle a two-billion-dollar assignment.

One commission will study public education, which now costs more than 1½ billion dollars a year in the state.

The other will look into public welfare, for which the state and localities, with some federal aid, now spend more than 400 million dollars a year.

Beset With Problems

The studies were ordered as the Legislature was beset with unusually critical problems this year in both fields.

Demands for more state aid to education reached a new high as local school districts met growing resistance from property owners who pay most of the public bill.

Education officials readily concede there has been a growing public concern over education costs.

There have been charges that unnecessary grills in construction and curriculums of public schools place unnecessary burdens on taxpayers. School officials explain that operation costs are the major factor in increased expense.

But the Board of Regents has estimated that the state's growing population inflation and education needs will continue to send school costs upward—at the rate of 200 million dollars a year.

A legislative commission faces a major challenge in finding ways to stem that trend.

There is a strong possibility the commission's main job might be finding ways to raise the money to meet the rising costs rather than means to cut them significantly.

New System Sought

A windfall this year in the form of much higher revenues than expected enabled a major boost in state aid to schools without new taxes.

But that will not happen every year. So the Legislature directed the commission to study the whole field of education and draft a new system of dealing with education finances.

One recommendation is expected to be some form of permanent formula that keys state aid to overall costs, rather than just to the number of pupils.

Lawmakers long have resented demands from local school boards for more money.

If they refused, the lawmakers felt, they were accused of being anti-education. If they agreed, they had to find new taxes and were accused of being big spenders.

Permanent Formula Best

A permanent formula would work automatically each year, without the perennial struggles and debates.

Public welfare spending also was the center of unusually high interest this year. Again, this was because of rising costs, borne by taxpayers.

Many newspapers and public officials long have spotlighted abuses in the program and these disclosures received more than usual attention this year.

The possibility of savings through tighter administration had been raised even by Gov. Rockefeller, who has clashed on other occasions with relief critics.

The Welfare Department says the bulk of aid goes to children, the sick and the elderly and claims there has been no widespread waste.

Nuclear Disarming Found Swamped in Gobbledygook

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Statesmen talk ambiguously about ways and means of curtailing nuclear weapons—and technicians shudder as they see dangers ahead.

President Eisenhower tells a press conference in Washington that an agreement to stop nuclear tests is only a "fringe subject" in the whole field of disarmament. And Nikita Khrushchev tells a press conference in France that "there is no common ground" between the Soviet and western proposals on disarmament.

What is the explanation then for all the gobbledygook? Who is really going to stop doing what—and how is any agreement made going to be policed so there will be no cheating?

These are still unanswered questions, despite all the high-sounding speeches made as President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan conclude their talks in Washington, and as the conference at Geneva on disarmament struggles along fitfully from one exhausting session to another.

Significant words that give some explanation of the mystery are to be found in the official communique issued after the Eisenhower-Macmillan meeting. It says, for instance, that "there are a number of important specific problems to be resolved," and then adds:

"These include the questions of an adequate program of on-site inspections, the composition of the control commission, control post staffing and voting matters, as well as arrangements for peaceful purposes detonations."

The hopeful opinion is expressed that "negotiations on these points should be speeded up and completed at the earliest possible time."

But the discussions thus far at Geneva and elsewhere in the capitals of the East and West do not augur well. On the surface, there is hope of an early agreement, but there are lots of obstacles in the way and the tactics of the Soviets up till now do not indicate any sincere desire to hasten agreement.

There is, moreover, no clear-cut answer to the uncertainties that surround the whole problem. Thus, Dr. Herbert F. York, the Pentagon's research chief, testified today before a Senate committee that the United States would retain a military advantage even if the United States and the Soviet Union should stop nuclear tests. He said:

"We are, I believe, well ahead in this particular field. When you're ahead, if both sides stop and really stop, this seems to leave an advantage with us."

But who can say the Soviets "really will stop"? There are many difficulties in detecting tests of smaller weapons. Indeed, it may be that the smaller weapons to be used by so-called conventional armed forces will determine the outcome of future wars. One technician, who is knowledgeable on the whole subject, puts it this way:

Always New Avenues

"As the laboratories proceed toward the assimilation of the data acquired from the previous test series, there are new avenues always opening which should be explored but which cannot be explored completely without further testing.

"There is no such thing as complete assurance in almost any inspection system that will be provided. We will be leaving open to the Soviets tremendous fields which we know exist for the further development of the general types that we have been discusssing — small weapons, warheads, atomic propulsion for space vehicles. We know beyond any shadow of a doubt that this is wide open under any kind of inspection system that we are talking about now. So there are large areas that still could be covered under this system in which we would have stopped and they wouldn't.

"The main point is that at the moment, by stopping completely as the Soviets want us to do, we would more or less freeze ourselves in the present massive-deterrent posture, where, if we are ever challenged, we would have little to fall back upon except all-out massive attack. We have built the nuclear weapon into our whole defense establishment under the 'new-look' policy, so we are completely dependent on the nuclear weapon if we get into any serious trouble—whether it's a limited war or an all-out war."

It is conceded that very little is as yet known about underground testing. What is being proposed is that a gentlemen's agreement be signed to refrain from testing in this field. It is called "unilateral" agreement, which means that each side determines for itself when testing will be resumed if it thinks the other fellow has not honored the agreement. But since when is the Soviet word to be trusted? Will there be a debate for months while technicians try to prove whether a breach has occurred?

Also, who is going to say that a "test" isn't for "peaceful purpose?" And how can small tests ever be policed, especially when they are executed underground? Questions like these illustrate the vagueness of the whole issue.

Only a foolproof disarmament scheme, involving destruction of all nuclear weapons in every category that have been manufactured and are now in the stockpile, will begin to assure the world against a holocaust. Neither side is ready as yet to agree to such a plan.

Rainmaking Venture Gets Big Area Surprise in May

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
Freeman Staff Writer

This is the ninth of a series of articles on the 1950 rainmaking experiments by Dr. Wallace E. Howell, Harvard climatologist, to replenish New York City's depleted reservoirs.

And so the rains came, it was well noted in May, and with them came one of the big surprises of the whole venture.

Who's the pluvial prodder, nature or Dr. Howell? nearly everyone concerned asked. The rainmaker wouldn't say, but somebody did.

Monty Man Takes Credit

"I made the rain, and snow too," said Alfred Rudich in effect at Monticello, and nobody countered immediately with charges of interloping or infringement.

Operator of an airport at Monticello, Rudich said he has made three experimental flights to seed clouds over Sullivan county. Result — (as reported May 4) two snowstorms and one heavy rain.

It was noted that in eight attempts, Dr. Howell, never once claimed credit for rain or snow that followed, but Rudich, who said he experimented "purely on a personal basis, because he hopes to make a profession of rain-making," reported flying with John Wagnor, a former Navy pilot.

Quick Results

On a "rain run" between Port Jervis and Allendale March 21, Rudich said, he and Wagnor seeded the clouds with sodium iodide at 1,500 feet. Two hours later, he reported, four inches of snow fell in the area of Yankee Lake, and another 2½ inches fell at Liberty.

On April 1, Rudich claimed, they seed the northeast corner of Sullivan County at 6,000 to 7,000 feet, landed and went with a party of 10 to Roscoe where they saw "with their own eyes a three-quarter-inch rainfall two hours later. Similar results were produced April 5 in the same area, Rudich said.

The AP noted that Roscoe is 65 miles northwest of New York City on the Delaware watershed that leads into the New York reservoir system.

Slightly Different Plan

Rudich claimed that his system differed slightly from that of Dr. Howell's in that the Rudich plane shot the iodide after it had been "combusted" with a spark from the plane's engine. Howell, he said, used hydrogen in the combusting process.

The Rudich plane was a B-T-13 single engine, two-seater with a speed of 130 miles ar hour. He said the Governor of New Jersey, and the Government of Spain had expressed interest in his experiments and that New York City officials were aware of them.

At the time of the Rudich revelation the area reservoirs were reported at 85 per cent of capacity, but they were still low in the eyes of the experts who wanted them filled by June 1 as they often had been in the past, so that New York would not be caught short during the heavy summer drain on its water supply system.

Pictures in The Freeman showed the Ashokan building up toward its former shoreline. Those published earlier in the year showed the shoreline well out toward center.

A May 8 report said the rainmaker took no credit for showers in the Ashokan area. It was noted that Dr. Howell's staff had been active May 6 with "silver iodide smoke from ground generators, instead of the better known dry ice pellets dropped from the air."

City Water Engineer Edward J. Clark said rain fell for a half hour after the operation but Dr. Howell, or none of his staff took credit. A second smoke generator near Liberty got no results.

It was the hope of the scientists and engineers to gain much of the water needed to fill the reservoirs by June 1. It was then stated that 1,526,000,000 gallons a day would be needed.

Mahoney Deserts Phone Tax Fight

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Senate's Republican leader was in the paradoxical position today of having deserted his own original fight for the Rockefeller standby telephone tax plan approved by the Legislature Wednesday night.

The press of local politics led Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney to vote against the administration bill, Mahoney said. He said he would persist in his battle for federal surrender of the phone tax to the state, however.

Asked for Standby Law

Gov. Rockefeller had asked the GOP-controlled Legislature to pass standby legislation to permit the school districts of the state to collect a 10 per cent phone tax if the federal government abandons the tax. To New York's schools, the tax would mean 70 million dollars in revenue.

The Republican governor insured passage of his bill only by luring Democratic votes through compromises on state aid for Democratic New York City.

Many Upstate Republicans, along with downstate Democrats, opposed the bill from the start. Mahoney, however, had been pressing Congress to release the tax, which President Eisenhower wants to retain.

In the end, most of the Legislature's Democrats voted for the bill, because it also contained a provision for an additional 22 million dollars in state aid for New York City.

But Democrats from Mahoney's home county of Erie took a negative stand. It was reported that Mahoney decided to vote against the measure after learning the position of the Erie Democrats, whom he suspected of planning to use the tax issue against him in this year's election campaign.

The Senate approved the Rockefeller bill, 44-10, and the Assembly, 106-37.

Fire Hoses Break Up Student March in Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Powerful streams of water from fire hoses churned into a group of several hundred young Texas Negroes.

A thousand others chanting the Lord's Prayer paraded through the streets to Louisiana's 34-story state capitol at Baton Rouge for a protest assembly.

Those were major developments Wednesday in the unfolding campaign of the South's Negro youth to obtain service at lunch counters traditionally reserved for white patrons.

Police Arrest 55

The fire hoses went into play at Marshall, a town of 30,000 in the East Texas oil and farming region, to break up an assemblage at the courthouse square protesting lunch counter incidents which had brought arrests.

The incidents started as Negroes tried for the third time in a week to patronize lunch counters. Police made 55 arrests for unlawful assembly, then took into custody 200 more who gathered at the courthouse singing the "Star Spangled Banner," "God Bless America" and similar songs.

The crowd re-formed faster than it could be thinned by arrests, at one time pressing forward to the courthouse steps only to be warned by the district attorney. When officers started freeing those who had been taken into custody and they joined the crowd outside, firemen turned loose the hoses. Order was restored.

Shortly after the 1,000 students of Southern University, Negro state college and supporters staged their rally on the capitol grounds at Baton Rouge, the university announced the ousting of 18 from its rolls.

Dr. Martin L. Harvey, university dean, said the disciplinary action was taken for "violating university regulations, relating to insubordination, and conduct unbecoming to Southern University students."

The march on the capitol by the crowd singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" was to protest segregation practices which had resulted Monday in the jailing of several Negro students after Louisiana's first sitdown at a white lunch counter.

Other developments nationwide in the sitdown story:

1. Issuance in New York of an advisory document, for the guidance of the Episcopal Church's three million members, expressing general sympathy with the sit-in movement.

2. A 42-15 vote of the California Legislature to commend the demonstrators in the South.

3. A news conference statement by President Eisenhower of confidence that eventually America's conscience will give equal rights to all. He declined to pass judgment on stores which sell Negroes goods in some departments but bar them from lunch counters.

So They Say..

In a lifetime we have 22 more years of leisure time than our great-grandparents had. And the percentage of extra time is increasing.

Think It Through

E. F. HUTTON

THE OCTOPUS VERSUS OHIO

Last time, I reported that Uncle has fined the State of Ohio 28,000 $'s for growing excess wheat at its prisons and insane asylums in order to feed the inmates.

This shows what the idiotorium, known as the Department of Agriculture, is doing nowadays.

Ohio's Governor, DiSalle says, "You can't do that to a Sovereign State. We don't grow wheat to sell, but just to eat."

E. F. Hutton

But where was the Governor when Uncle seized the farm machinery and bank account of Farmer Stanley Yankus of Michigan, bankrupted him, and drove him to Australia because Mr. Yankus did the same thing as Ohio is doing?

What rights has the State of Ohio got that Ohio or Michigan farmers don't have, I'd like to know.

It's O.K. for the Governor to talk about "an indestructible Union of Sovereign States," and "Let Freedom Ring"; but where is sovereignty, and who is free today as the Federal octopus twines its costly tentacles around one and all?

The States are being eaten up along with the freedom of their citizens.

There was a time when the nation would have risen in arms to defend Farmer Yankus from the power-hungry bureaucrats in Washington.

State and local officials and the teachers' lobby are now begging Uncle to build their schoolhouses for them.

A few years from now, when Uncle tells them what to teach in those same schoolhouses (as in Russia), they will protest in vain.

Readings, Exhibits Planned

Many Events Are Scheduled For National Library Week

Two days when overdue books can be returned without fines charged, and an evening of readings presented by Coach House Players, are among the events scheduled at the Kingston City Library during National Library Week, April 3-9.

Joining public libraries across the country with the purpose of focusing public attention upon a unique American institution, the Kingston City Library will choose this week and the rest of April to initiate new library methods and services.

Tuesday and Wednesday, April 5 and 6, have been designated as forgiveness days by the library. On both these days, borrowers may return overdue books and not be charged for fines.

A library spokesman announced that it is hoped that many people will take advantage of these days to return long overdue books for which lengthy fines have accumulated. The library will establish a policy of no questions asked during the two days.

Players to Give Readings

Thursday evening, April 7, a performance of readings will be presented by the Coach House Players in concert form in the library's reference room.

Beginning at 8:30 p. m. the readings, including a one-act play and humorous poetry, will be performed by Elizabeth Askue, Scott Foster, Dickson McGrath, Sarah Mulligan, and Eve Wulff. No admission fee will be required.

The library's children's room will also participate in National Library Week with special programs on Thursday and Friday.

April 7, 2 p. m., the regular picture book hour for ages 3-5 will feature a retelling of favorite stories. Children are asked to submit their suggestion for stories they wish to hear again.

The story hour for ages 6-12, April 8, 4 p. m., will be a special program. Details about the event may be had at the library.

Children's Room Exhibits

The children's room will feature two exhibits. A selection of recent children's books, will be on display for the week.

The second exhibit, marking the first time in the library's history that they have been publicly exhibited, will consist of materials from the library's special collection of paper dolls. The exhibit, "Paper Dolls of Fifty Years ago," illustrates dress and style of American paper dolls of the first decade of the century.

The adult departments will also have two exhibits. A series of documents relating to the early history of the library, currently on display, will continue through April 9.

KHS Art Exhibit

Kingston High School students have contributed to the last display, a series of paintings done by students in art classes.

National Library Week was instituted in 1958 by the American Library Association in cooperation with the National Book Council and other service organizations.

This year, more than 9000 public, private, and special libraries will again join forces with a total of 40 national organizatiions in promoting reading and library service.

HomeStateTheme Observed by Cubs

Friday Cub Pack 26, Port Ewen, held its monthly meeting at the Town Hall. Harry Hults, assistant cubmaster and Harry Tholin, committee chairman presided in the absence of Arlington Finch, Cubmaster.

The theme for March was New York State. Among the exhibits were a wooden map of New York with pegs locating cities, made as a coat rack; a guessing game for the number of counties in the state; a lighted peep box answering questions about New York State; and different maps of New York with a State flag.

The following achievement awards were presented in dyed egg shells in an Easter basket:

Den 1, Caroline Bernhardt, den mother, Edward Bernhard, gold and silver arrow; Keith Hults, silver arrow; Frederick Schwartz, one-year service star.

Den 3, Agatha Larkin, den mother, Robert Courtney, gold and silver arrow under Bear; Alan Larkin, silver arrow under Wolf; Lee Staley, gold and silver arrow under Wolf, and Bear badge; Charles Wesley, gold arrow under Wolf.

Charles Tholin received his Webelos arrow and joined the new Webelos den under the leadership of Lowell Signor who was introduced.

Den 4, Margaret Dunham, den mother, John Senter, Bear badge; Kenneth Terpening, denner stripes; Frederick Clark, assistant denner stripe.

Den 4 then presented a humorous skit.

Hults announced that Robert Graves, principal of the Port Ewen School will be institutional representative for the coming year. The P-TA is purchasing a new flag from the Key Club of Kingston for Pack 26.

It is sincerely hoped that there will be continued interest on the part of the parents in Cub activities and the Pack meetings.

Arlington Finch will end his four-year term as cubmaster at the end of April. At that time, the Charter for Pack 26 will be renewed. Anyone interested in helping with Cubs, may call Finch or Harry Tholin.

Bill to Halt False Advertising Is Dead

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A measure that would have permitted the attorney general to seek injunctions to halt false advertising was dead today.

Assemblyman Luigi R. Marano (R-Manhattan) said Wednesday night he decided not to press for action on the measure because of "widespread opposition."

The New York State Publishers Assn. strongly opposed the bill as one "abhorrent to free newspapers."

A spokesman said newspapers "were in complete accord with the objective of abating false advertising," but opposed injunctive powers because they could be used unfairly.

The spokesman asked: "Is the attorney general to be empowered to go to court for an injunction to prevent a political candidate from publishing a political advertisement that the attorney general believes to be deceptive?"

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Showdown Nears In Senate Over Vote Procedure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate moved toward a showdown today on the kind of proceedings to require for Negroes seeking to register before court-appointed voting registrars.

A House-passed bill provides for simple, uncontested hearings. The Senate Judiciary Committee adopted 7-6 an amendment to require two days advance notice of the hearings and permit county and state registrars to sit in. There was a dispute over whether they could actively participate.

Opponents of the committee amendment said the outcome could be crucial to the effectiveness of the plan for court-appointed referees to protect Negro voting rights.

The issue was left dangling Wednesday night after the Senate, in a surprise burst of speed, took up the House measure and adopted all the other amendments recommended by the committee.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) said this didn't signal any collapse of the fight he and other Southern senators have been waging against the passage of civil rights legislation.

"We just thought all the committee amendments improved the bill," he told a reporter.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) foresaw the possibility nonetheless that the long Senate battle over civil rights, now in its seventh week, might be concluded by the middle of next week.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) sponsored the amendment to let city and state officials sit in on the registration hearings and make a transcript of the proceedings.

Kefauver contended his amendment would improve the voting referee plan rather than scuttle it, but opponents argued that it was "an invitation to intimidation" of Negroes seeking to exercise their voting rights.

Doctor Is Fired As Medical Head In Oneida Office

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—The Oneida County Welfare Department will be without a director of medical service Friday and the post may remain vacant for some time.

The county, at state insistence, fired Dr. Francis A. Marino as of today from the $10,000-a-year part-time job.

The county medical society Wednesday night moved to block the appointment of a successor for the 20-hour-per-week job. "We strongly advise," the society's board of trustees said, "that no member of our society accept the position."

The society also must approve any appointee.

The society said it had asked for reasons for statements that Dr. Marino's services were unsatisfactory, but said it had received no answer.

Dr. Marino also is seeking a public hearing on his ouster.

The board said its stand against a member taking the post will remain in effect "until specific and satisfactory reasons have been given for the termination of Dr. Marino's services."

County Welfare Commissioner Cletus Goetz fired Dr. Marino March 15.

The same day, the State Board of Social Welfare approved reimbursement to the county of an estimated $320,000 that had been withheld by the state after reports that $500,000 a year was being wasted through poor administration of the county department's medical program.

The reports of waste through poor administration were made by a private consulting firm hired by the county. In July 1959, the state, at the request of the county welfare commissioner, undertook reorganization of the county program.

Status of Major Bills With N. Y. Lawmakers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—This is the status of major bills in the 1960 Legislature, which adjourns today:

Bills passed and signed by the governor included measures that:

Allow widows and other unmarried heads of households to same $25 tax credit allowed married couples.

Create a new traffic offense of driving while ability is impaired by alcohol, a lesser charge than driving while intoxicated. The new charge would apply to persons not intoxicated under present legal definitions.

Reduce registration fees for station wagons to the same level as those for passenger automobiles.

Implement several of the governor's minor proposals for reorganization of the executive branch of state government to improve efficiency.

Create a state council on the arts to recommend ways to stimulate public participation in artistic activity.

Bills passed and now before the governor include measures that would:

Increase state aid to education by 99 million dollars in the next school year.

Authorize local school districts to levy a 10 per cent telephone-use tax, provided a similar federal levy expires June 30 as scheduled.

Increase workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance benefits from $45 to $50 a week and set a $1-an-hour minimum wage.

Ask voters to decide whether the state should borrow 75 million dollars to develop state and local parks and recreation areas.

Make New York State income-tax law conform with a major portion of federal tax law, a move that would cut state income-taxes by 10½ million dollars.

Allow a flat, $100 tax credit for small businesses instead of the maximum $35 now allowed. But businessmen that owed over $200 in unincorporated business taxes would get no credit.

Bills killed by the Legislature included measures that would have:

Required all property owners to construct, at their own expense, shelters for protection from radioactive fallout from nuclear attack.

Increase tax credits for married couples from $25 to $35, for a total saving of 30 million dollars.

Bills vetoed by Rockefeller included measures that would have:

Barred public welfare to any persons who had not lived in the state continuously for at least one year.

$50,000 May Be

Special Atorney General Bernard Tompkins who was appointed by Governor Harriman and re-appointed special prosecutor by Governor Rockefeller.

Beginning in March 1958, the Tompkins probe got into high gear in June when a special grand jury was drawn and since that time 12 indictments have been returned. Only one trial has been held, that of Former Commissioner of Jurors Edwin W. Ashby who was charged with perjury before the grand jury. The conviction by the trial jury is still on appeal and Ashby is on bail.

Former Kingston Superintendent of Public Works Ernest A. Steuding on a plea of guilty to conspiracy was given a year suspended jail sentence; Austin Boyd, an official of Lansdell Corporation paid a $5,000 fine and a 2½ to 5 year prison term was suspended; Anthony Macera of Catskill, former plant manager of Westchester Asphalt Company paid $1,000 under a two count conspiracy indictment.

No Word From Tompkins

At the office of Special Prosecutor Bernard Tompkins today it was stated he was "unavailable" and there was "no news."

A motion in the Ryan case was scheduled to be heard before the Court of Appeals in Albany this afternoon. The matter was in regard to a writ of prohibition, seeking to nullify an indictment for conspiracy which was returned by the regular March 1959 Grand Jury after a similar indictment returned by the Special Grand Jury had been voided. N. LeVan Haver, counsel for Ryan, seeks to have the indictment dismissed on the grounds the regular March grand jury which returned the indictment had been illegally convened by Justice William Deckelman.

Grants Application

In the Rocco Benevento conspiracy case Justice William H. Coon of the Appellate Division has granted the application of Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman, attorneys for Benevento, to move for dismissal of the indictment in that court on Friday.

Benevento, town superintendent of highways of the Town of Marlboro, was indicted February 25 by the special grand jury on a charge of conspiracy arising out of the purchase of road oil.

Arraigned on March 9 before Justice Henry Clay Greenberg, Benevento was represented by Charles Saccoman. A plea of innocent was entered and bail in the sum of $500 was posted. Defense counsel was given until March 21 to make motions addressed to the indictment. That date was later extended to March 30 and meanwhile defense counsel secured the order from Justice Coon to present motions before the Appellate Division on Friday.

Benevento was named jointly with Anthony Macera of Catskill in a conspiracy indictment. Macera entered a plea of guilty on March 9 and paid a $1,000 fine.

Plane Ditches

helped out of a helicopter at Patrick and put to bed at the base hospital. Officers said he was too tired to talk.

Cmdr. Donald M. Reed, executive officer of the St. Petersburg Coast Guard Air Station, said Rogers "didn't say a word" when he was hauled into Reed's plane on a sling lowered to the ocean surface.

"He was very tired," Reed said.

Reed said "we saw this man Rogers hanging onto a piece of wreckage, and hovered over him. We lowered a hoist with a sling on it, and he was able to get in.

"We saw at least two groups of four or five men in the water. When we reached the ditching area some of them were waving flashlights. We directed the two surface ships to the men we sighted.

"Most of the plane's forward end and wings appeared intact. We couldn't see a tail."

Mayor Proclaims April as Cancer Control Month

Mayor Edwin F. Radel today proclaimed April as "Cancer Control Month," and urged that "all citizens and all community organizations join in the observance."

Civic leaders "across the nation," he said, "have given recognition to the efforts and achievements of those people who are actively engaged in curbing cancer," and "Our President and the United States Congress have proclaimed by their official acts, that the month of April each year" is designated to cancer control.

The local agency, "The Ulster County Branch of the American Cancer Society, through concerted efforts has contributed greatly to health and general well being of our community, and their work and its far-reaching effects are only possible through public cooperation and support."

The mayor noted that "Public contributions make possible the extensive educational program instituted by our chapter, and placed Ulster County first in its division in 1959, with 129 per cent of the anticipated quota realized."

Asks That Johnson City Plant Sale Be Held Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman has asked that the proposed sale of Air Force Plant No. 59 at Johnson City, N. Y., to the General Electric Co. be held up until he has a chance to look further into the matter.

Rep. Frank C. Osmers Jr. (R-NY) said Wednesday that the Defense Department should work out a formula for disposing of surplus government properties housing both government-owned and privately-owned machinery.

"In cases like this (the Johnson City plant)," Osmers said, the government "becomes the captive of the tenant."

"We have no other alternative than to sell the plant to the private company at a low cost," he declared.

The House armed services subcommittee, however, approved sale of the plant to whoever submits the highest bid.

Such sales must have the approval of both the House and Senate Armed Services Committees and the General Services Administration.

125 Booths Set For Lions Show

Plans for the 13th annual Kingston Lions Club Industrial Exposition are progressing rapidly as the opening night draws near. The exposition has been a sell-out for the past week, and the task of setting up booths and readying the Armory on Manor Avenue in Kingston for the five big nights now begins.

This year's event will contain 125 booths, filled with displays by area industrial and business establishments. The show will take place April 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 with nightly awards as well as the grand awards Saturday night, April 9. All proceeds, as in the past, will be used for community purposes.

The following additional exhibitors have announced details about their booths:

A roving photographer will be a feature of Kingston Savings Bank's exhibit. She will snap pictures of visitors and those whose pictures are taken may receive them by stopping at the Kingston Savings Bank's booth. There will also be helpful literature about the bank's many services, and a shopping bag will be given in which this literature and other exposition souvenirs may be taken home. Kingston Savings Bank is also giving a prize every night and a grand prize on the final night of the show.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's booth will feature the "D" Humidifier—the modern way of reducing dampness in garages, basements or any room in the home.

The feature of Colonial Tire Company's booth will be a complete line of Armstrong Tires which will include tires for commercial equipment as well as conventional automobile tires. There will also be a complete display of auto accessories.

Kingston Furnace Corporation's display will consist of a truck completely equipped with a power vacuum mounted on it.

The booth occupied by the Ulster County Fuel Oil Dealers Association will display a special background with cut out mounted colored photos of trucks owned by association members. Emphasis will be placed on new thoughts in oil heating and several pieces of newly developed equipment will be on display.

Visitors to WGHQ's booth will be given the opportunity of winning prizes through their skill in shooting ping-pong balls through the "Q" of the call signs which will be mounted at the back of the booth.

In keeping with their policy of featuring only the finest in any product, Elston's Sport Shop will have a special display featuring a live demonstration in one of America's fastest growing sports. This will be of general interest to all sports minded people.

Rosendale Man Is Fined $20 on Assault Counts

A Rosendale man was fined a total of $20 on two counts of assault third degree Wednesday night by Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky.

Donald Wallace was also sentenced to six months in the Ulster County jail (suspended) and was placed on probation for three years.

Wallace was arrested March 2 by Trooper Joseph Ventriglia of the Kingston state police and Constable George Bockelmann of the town of Rosendale on complaint of two Rosendale boys, Roy Lishinsky, 14, and James Rich, 12.

It was reported that Wallace attacked the boys after they taunted him when he went to his car to search for his keys.

Attorney William Curran of Rosendale represented Wallace and Attorney James Murray of Ellenville appeared for the district attorney's office.

Wallace had originally asked for a jury trial which was scheduled for last night, but changed his plea to guilty.

Road Toll Down

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic accidents killed 2,370 persons in February, the first time in three months that the toll was lower than in the corresponding month a year ago, the National Safety Council said today.

Last month's toll was 50 less than in February 1959 and was the lowest for any February since 1955 when 2,319 persons were killed. The council said severe weather last month probably held down traffic in many parts of the nation.

Kingston C-H

James F. Moore and Safety Director George J. Ruoff.

The award was presented by Company Vice President and Assistant General Manager Lelan F. Sillin Jr. Sillin noted that the award was particularly significant because the relatively small size of the group has meant that it has taken a far greater amount of time to achieve the goal than for most other utility winners. He said, "This is also a tribute to the cooperation between members of this group and their supervisors who, working together helped set up the company's safety rules. The achievement illustrates the degree to which you have lived by those rules.

The award was accepted on behalf of the group by Vice Present-Operations Ernest A. Althouse who paid tribute to the Kingston Employes and noted that the award "indicates that you have a high sense of responsibility for your work and for the safety of your associates. Your efforts will inspire and guide all of us at Central Hudson."

In the past 20 years about 920 EEI awards have been made. Central Hudson's is one of relatively few that has been conferred to a group that includes outside electric line forces whose exposure to injury is relatively high. Central Hudson joined Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp and the Long Island Lighting, three larger companies, as the only utilities in New York State to earn the award.

Kingston employes involved in setting the million man-hour range from members of line crews and testers to office personnel, estimators and engineers. Although the average size of the group has been about 85 persons, 134 employes have contributed to the million man-hour record over the six-year period.

Exposure to injury varies among employes. It was noted, however, that many of the members of the group have worked under very hazardous service restoration conditions during serious storms several times during the six-year period.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and my brother, Robert Otto Mayr, who passed away 3 years ago today, March 31, 1957.

Fondly loved and deeply mourned,
Heart of our heart, we miss you so,
Often, our darling our tears will flow,
Dimming your picture before our eyes,
But never the one in our heart that lies.
The stars seem dim as we whisper low;
"Our own darling boy, we miss you so!"

Robert Moses, the chairman, was the only Republican on the Authority.

Also confirmed Wednesday night were the nominations of William L. Fanning of Ossining and Samuel G. Staff of New York City, as commissioners of the State Insurance Fund.

Morocco Renews Bid To Oust French Troops

PARIS (AP) — Morocco is believed to have demanded again today that French troops be withdrawn from its territory. The demand was believed to have been made in a personal letter from King Mohammed V to President Charles de Gaulle.

The Moroccans, who gained independence from France in 1956, long have insisted that all foreign troops must be withdrawn from their country. The United States and Spain already have started evacuation programs. But the French maintain that the 20,000 soldiers they have stationed in Morocco are important to Western defense.

Named President

of Rotarian Arthur W. Patterson, was in charge of the program.

A native of Groningen in the Netherlands, he showed pictures of that country. The pictures released by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization depicted the agricultural, industrial and commercial life of the community as well as the unique canal system, the fishing and boating industry.

The garnet is the birthstone for persons born in the month of January.

Conference Held

spoke briefly on the future distribution of surplus foods to schools.

Mrs. Agnes P. Peske of the State Education Department spoke on determining meal costs, illustrating how an accurate breakdown of food, labor and miscellaneous costs could lead to better and more nutritious meals for students.

Mrs. Irene Conklin, school lunch director for the Suffern schools, addressed the afternoon session, discussing the things people want to know about the school lunch program.

Those attending then divided into groups for further discussion along these lines.

Local arrangements for the conference were under the direction of John W. Johnson, director of school lunches for the Kingston School District (Consolidated), assisted by Miss Helen Tompkins, cook manager for the Chambers School.

20,000 Lunch Employes

Some points made during the conference:

A total of 3,466 school lunch rooms are in use in New York State.

There are 20,000 school lunch employes in New York State.

In the United States a total of $60,000,000 is expended annually in school lunch sales.

Upstate City Had 300 School Girl Mothers Reported

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 300 high school and junior high school girls in an Upstate New York City bore children between September 1958 and the spring of 1959, a complaint to the State Investigation Commission says.

The commission, which mentioned the complaint in its annual report today, did not identify the city.

Police Officer Resigns

The report said the commission sparked the resignation last June of a police officer accused of participating in a "sex epidemic" with high school girls in the Upstate city.

According to the complaint received by the commission, one of the girls with whom the officer allegedly "was having affairs" became pregnant.

"Yet the officer was continuing these escapades without any action being taken by any one to stop him," the commission said.

The person who made the complaint, the report said, believed the policeman had political protection.

Agents Arrive in City

The police officer resigned a day after two commission agents arrived in his city, the report said.

The commission pointed to the case as one item in the evidence of corruption in the law enforcement field.

"The findings of the New York State Crime Commission in 1953 are fully substantiated by this commission's experience," the report said. The investigation commission, created by the Legislature in 1958, is operating in much the same field as the old crime commission.

On the subject of gambling, the commission report said:

"The major law enforcement problem of this state today is professional gambling in all its aspects and ramifications. . . . Moreover, professional gamblers are the major corrupting influence in our life today.

"Regrettably, many public officials do not appreciate and understand the significance and importance of these conclusions as to illegal gambling."

$50,000 Confiscated

The report said that more than $50,000 confiscated by the commission in numbers game raids in the Buffalo area last Oct. 23 has been subjected to state and federal income tax liens. Federal tax levies of more than $100,000 were placed against the persons arrested.

The commission said it saved the state $460,678 by disclosing that the amount had been improperly approved for construction of kitchen facilities at Yonkers Raceway.

Behan Hospitalized

LONDON (AP)—Brendan Behan was hospitalized Wednesday night for acute diabetes. A friend reported earlier that the hard-drinking 38-year-old Irish playwright had been in an intermittent coma for five days. The friend said the doctors had warned Behan he might live less than a year.

Help Is Requested

District Supervisor Vacca issued an appeal to each individual to help the enumerators by having the census form ready when they call at area homes.

At every fourth household, the census taker will leave a census household questionnaire which contains additional questions covering population and housing characteristics which are being asked of a 25 per cent sample of the population. Householders are requested to fill out the household questionnaire and mail it within three days to the local census district office. A pre-addressed postage free envelope is being provided for this purpose.

United Jewish Fund Appeal Is Underway Locally

At the campaign cabinet meeting of the United Jewish Welfare Fund, Tuesday, Arthur P. Motzkin, general chairman, announced the appointment of Benjamin Suskind as chairman of general solicitations.

Preparations are being made for the important initial gifts meeting at the home of Joseph E. Honig, Thursday, April 7.

In commenting upon the importance of this year's campaign, Motzkin stressed the life-saving work of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, one of the beneficiary agencies of the Kingston Welfare Fund campaign.

At the present time, plans are being made by the JDC for the rehabilitation and resettlement of some 700 to 800 surviving Jews of Agadir, Morocco—all who are left of the community's 2,300.

Edward M. M. Warburg, JDC chairman, today reported that some 500 of the Agadir Jews had been brought to Casablanca, where they are being cared for by the JDC, which is also providing food, clothing and medical care.

After the immediate emergency has been met, Warburg reported, JDC must be prepared to provide housing, jobs, schooling for the children and other necessities for the refugees. If Agadir is rebuilt, it will take many years, and it is difficult to predict how many of the city's Jewish population will return, he said.

Of the 2,300 Jews in Agadir, the large majority perished in the earthquake. The same is true for the village of Inezgane, about eight to ten kilometers from Agadir, which had a Jewish population of about 250.

Jewish institutions in Agadir were either completely destroyed or so badly damaged that they will have to be torn down. These include the Lubowitcher yeshiva, the Alliance Israelite Universelle school and the Garderie (kindergarten). Many of the community leaders and professional staff, including two rabbis, were killed in the disaster.

Teen-Ager Kills Classmate; Feared For Friend's Life

ALICE, Tex. (AP) — Donna Dvorak slept restlessly. Finally she awoke at 2 a.m., tormented by fears for a friend's life. Then she reached a painful decision.

She slipped through her darkened home to where the family kept a .22 target pistol. She put it in her school bag.

Shoots Him in School

And Wednesday she arose from her seat in the back of a classroom at Dubose Junior High and shot and killed Bobby Whitford, 15, sitting 25 feet away at the front of the class.

This was the story the petite, blonde 14-year-old told Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller and reporters.

Friends called the girl quiet when with people, but tomboyish. She is an expert with firearms.

Her lawyer, Homer Dean Jr., issued a statement that "in her 14-year-old mind" the girl thought she "did the right thing in protecting a friend."

Donn's story related that young Whitford and Kate McCoy, 15, dated for a time. Then Kate broke off the romance.

Whitford went to the McCoy home and declared:

"If Kate won't go out with me, she won't go out with anyone."

Donna, a close friend of Kate, told officers she considered the statement a threat against Kate's life.

Donna ducked behind her desk and placed cartridges in the weapon moments before she fired.

20 in the Room

The shooting occurred during a science class with about 20 pupils in the room. Teacher George Frank took the pistol from Donna without a struggle.

She was charged with being a delinquent juvenile, the only charge that can be placed against a person of her age in Texas. Donna was committed to the Martineau Juvenile Hall in Corpus Christi, Tex., pending a hearing April 6.

Pope John Confers Red Hats on Eight

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today conferred the red hats symbolic of their rank on eight cardinals of the Roman Catholic church.

In a public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica the flat, broad-brimmed galero was held over the heads of seven new princes of the church and Paolo Cardinal Marella, former apostolic nuncio to France, who was named last December.

The new cardinals include the first Negro, Japanese and Filipino named to the church senate, two Italians, a Dutchman and a Frenchman.

Thousands packed St. Peter's for the ceremony, including pilgrims from Africa, the Philippines and Japan.

Cardinal Marella was the first to receive his galero.

The great basilica was hushed for the solemn words of the 78-year-old Pontiff as e ach cardinal knelt before him.

But when Bishop Laurian Rugambwa of Tanganyika approached the papal throne, applause broke out for the first Negro cardinal. The 6-foot, 47-year-old African prelate, whose diocese spreads for 4,000 square miles on the shore of Lake Victoria, knelt humbly before the Pope with his head bowed. He was the next to last to receive the galero.

The actual ceremony lasted only about seven minutes.

These raised the membership of the Sacred College of Cardinals to 88—the highest in history. Besides Bishop Rugambwa, the six other new princes of the church are:

Peter Tatsuo Cardinal Doi, 67, Archbishop of Tokyo; Rufino J. Cardinal Santos, 51, archbishop of Manila; Bernard Jan Cardinal Alfrink, 59, archbishop of Utrecht, Netherlands; Joseph Cardinal Lefebvre, 67, archbishop of Bourges, France, and Luigi Cardinal Traglia, 64, and Antonio Cardinal Bacci, 64, Italian members of the Vatican Curia.

In 1957, 63% of the cars produced in the world were produced in the U. S.; West Germany and the United Kingdom produced the next largest numbers.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Edith Head, who has designed clothes for many motion pictures and—among other things—is famous for putting white gloves on Grace Kelly, has a television job which would tax the diplomacy of a State Department career man.

For the eighth consecutive year, tiny, dark-haired Miss Head will serve as official design consultants for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences when television broadcasts its annual Oscar-awarding ceremonies on NBC Monday night.

"That really means that, as far as the stars' clothes go, I serve as a combination umpire, referee —and censor," confesses the designer.

Although the annual show is partly a fashion show, there are certain ground rules of taste which Miss Head must enforce.

"Some of the rules are common sense," she explains. "For instance, I tell them to keep away from dead white — light bounces off it. Other rules are purposeful: No low decolletage since the cameras are placed high in the theater.

The special 30-minute show at 10 p.m. precedes the ceremonies. It will be pretaped in a Hollywood restaurant, and show some of the top stars and their gowns.

NBC plans a triple program play in mid-April when "Wichita Town" departs the network. "People Are Funny" will slip into its vacated space on April 13, and Art Linkletter's old Friday night timespot—7:30-8—will be taken by a version of "Play Your Hunch," which will also continue as a daily feature.

Recommended tonight: All-Star Circus, ABC, 7:30-8:30 Eastern Standard Time—acts from the European Bertram Mills Circus with Joe E. Brown, host; Hour of Great Mysteries, NBC, 9-10—first of a new series, this an adaptation of "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinhart and Avery Hopwood, starring Helen Hayes and Jason Robards Jr.

Week Politically Quiet

Nixon Avers He Will Run On Own Expanded Program

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least a couple of things seemed settled—but not quite—in this otherwise rather quiet political week.

On Monday Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Nebraska audience he would not run for the presidency on the record of the Eisenhower administration alone but would have an expanded program of his own.

And Wednesday President Eisenhower told a news conference Nixon would be "absolutely stupid" to try to run on his administration's record alone. But what remains unsettled is this:

1. Just how far can Nixon depart from Eisenhower's view of things—since too much difference might look like criticism — and still expect vigorous support from the President in the campaign?

2. Just what kind of program of his own is Nixon going to think up? He is trying to get a farm program different from the administration's, or so it seems. And he has listed some points he says will be issues in the campaign.

But there is still a haze—although it's too early to expect him to get specific yet, with the campaign still months away—over how he is going to make his thinking look new or different from Eisenhower's.

Nixon himself said last January at a Chicago dinner that, "great as are our domestic problems," national security and foreign policy transcend them all. Then he proceeded to defend the Eisenhower performance in both fields.

Since the Democrats have been continually critical of Eisenhower's vision in national defense, Nixon should be in a bit of dilemma saying much that is different from the President in this field.

He can't join the Democrats in their criticism and he can't very well propose what the Democrats suggest without appearing to agree with them.

He outlined to the dinner five areas of the administration's record which probably will play a major role in his campaign although exactly what his position on each will be is something he has to figure out:

1. Education: The American system is the best in the world, he said, "but inadequate classrooms, underpaid teachers and flabby standards are weaknesses we must constantly strive to eliminate."

That's all been said before. The question is: How? And right there Nixon seemed to follow the Eisenhower line. He cautioned that federal programs must not infringe upon state and local responsibility.

2. Agriculture: On this he said "there is no higher legislative priority than a complete overhauling of obsolete farm programs under which the prices farmers receive for major farm production continue to go down and the costs to the taxpayers continue to go up." But Nixon still hasn't come up with his own farm program.

3. Unemployment: He called for programs in which "areas of chronic unemployment can be restored to healthy, productive units of our economy."

Only Wednesday a special Senate committee of Democrats and Republicans said unemployment is a grave national problem requiring comprehensive remedial action. But they disagreed on how to handle it.

4. Social Security: Nixon said there is need for "more adequate methods for protecting the aged, the unemployed and the disabled."

Wednesday Eisenhower opposed any compulsory insurance system to provide medical care for the aged. In this field Nixon may break away from Eisenhower's thinking. But that's for the future to show.

5. Labor-management disputes: Nixon said these must be dealt with "so that the public interest may be more adequately protected but without controls which would stifle the productivity of our free enterprise system."

This will require some neat doing. Figuring out how ought to take up a lot of Nixon's time.

Katrine Cub Pack Lists Committee

The Cub Scouts of Pack 10 held their monthly pack meeting Monday at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall. Robert Ohlson, the new pack chairman presided over the parents' meeting and introduced the members of the pack committee for the new charter year.

They are Richard Meiers, vice chairman; Harold Bell, treasurer; Joseph Benjamin, activities; Cuy Collodi, achievements; and Mrs. Josephine Sande, secretary.

Plans to take the boys on trips to West Point, Stewart Field and other places of interest were in the making, Benjamin reported. After a discussion on eliminating refreshments a majority voted to continue them at pack meetings.

The cubs, were given a uniform inspection and they rated 92.6 per cent. The Flag ceremony was conducted by Den 3, with Patrick McManamon Jr. leading the flag salute, and Werner Kolln and Jay Colen carrying the flags.

Three new bobcats were welcomed into the pack, Arthur Daley, Charles Bonse Jr., and John Burgher. The parents of the boys stood with them and also repeated a pledge of understanding and cooperation. Included in the Bobcat ceremony was Gary Short, who had been ill and missed formal induction into the pack earlier this year.

Cubmaster McManamon and his assistants gave out the following awards;

Wolf badges, Kevin Plattner and Vernon Smith. Gold arrows under Wolf, Kevin Plattner, Christopher Meiers and Robert Hill. Gold arrows under Bear Calvin Ehlers and Jonathan Meiers. Silver arrow under Bear, Richard Sande.

Denner Stripes were presented to Kevin Plattner and Robert Hill, and assistant Denner stripes to Keith Knapp. One-year service stars were presented to Kevin Fischang, Ronald Peck and Jay Colen. A two-year service star went to Kevin Williams, and three-year service stars were awarded Den Mothers Audrey Anderson and Evelyn Henion.

With the theme for this month being "My Home State," a movie, "American Battleground" was shown of the Revolutionary War in New York State. Because of the length of the program, the racer derby was postponed until the next meeting.

Handicraft awards were won by Corliss Varnum, John Benjamin and Brian Williams. Special mention was made of the display of Den 6 on New York State. Mrs. Gloria Hotaling, den mother. A hand crocheted rug won for Brian Williams, and he demonstrated his skill and explained the method. He has crocheted four rugs to date.

Den 5 Cubs sang the closing song which was amusing and original. They were led by their own den mother, Mrs. Doris Hoffman.

Dens 6 and 4 had den duty and served refreshments. Pack Committee meets at the home of Mrs. J. Sande April 4, 8 p. m. Next pack meeting is April 25 with The Great Lakes the theme of the month.

Trumbo Reinstated By Writers Guild

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Writers Guild of America has reinstated screen writer Dalton Trumbo, who was blacklisted in 1947 after he refused to answer questions at a congressional hearing about his feelings on communism.

Guild President Curtis Kenyon said Trumbo had been on suspension for nonpayment of dues. He said the guild has an anti-Communist clause, but only for those proved to be Communists or those who admit being party members.

SAFETY TO SPARE—Auto design takes a new turn at Brussels, Belgium, where this car has its spare tires mounted in front to absorb the shock of a collision. Displayed at an inventors' show, the idea was dreamed up by Jacques Gerin of France. The spare tire-bumper is mounted firmly so that it can turn the car away from any obstacle the wheel hits.

Man Killed on Way To Wife's Funeral

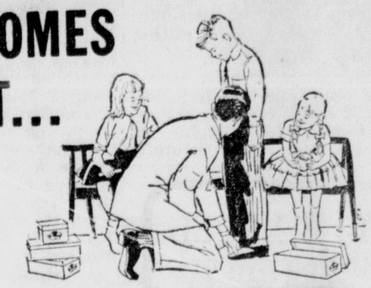

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —A Michigan man en route to Tennessee for his wife's funeral joined her in death Wednesday when his car smashed into a truck.

Jimmie McFalls, 49, of Dearborn, Mich., was headed for Erin, Tenn., where Bessie McFalls was to be buried, when his auto went out of control on a curve east of here on U.S. 6. Four passengers in the car were hurt — two of them McFalls' teen-age sons. The truck driver was uninjured.

Awards Presented at Scout Fellowship Dinner Tuesday

Over three hundred Scouters, representing seven districts of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, were in attendance at the Golden Jubilee Fellowship Dinner of the Council held Tuesday night at the Saugerties High School.

Preceding the dinner, served by the Saugerties High School cafeteria staff, the Scouters enjoyed a series of colorful exhibits featuring Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting, Exploring, The Order of the Arrow, The 5th National Jamboree, to be held this summer at Colorado Springs, Colorado, and the Golden Jubilee anniversary.

The invocation at the dinner was given by the Rev. Peter W. Hill of the Trinity Episcopal Church, Saugerties. Serving as toastmaster was Elwood Hitchcock of East Jewett, President of the Rip Van Winkle Council.

Opening the fellowship meeting phase of the program, held in the Auditorium was an impressive tableau, highlighting a living reproduction of the Scout statuette created by the late R. Tait McKenzie, famous American sculptor.

Scout Song Session

A brief message of welcome to the Saugerties District was given by Harry Hoffman, of Saugerties, district chairman and member of the Council Executive Board.

Robert Tremper, of Ulster Park, assistant district Commissioner of the Kingston District, led the assemblage in a Scouting fellowship song session.

A special message of welcome to visiting dignitaries, representing both Ulster and Greene Counties, was given by Scout Executive Alex Macdonald of Hurley.

Johan Aalto of Shokan, former president of the Rip Van Winkle Council conducted a brief ceremony recognizing the years of service to boyhood rendered by volunteer leaders throughout the Council territory.

The Man-Miles Trophy, awarded to the district whose Scouters traveled the highest aggregate of man-miles to attend the annual dinner was presented by Gerald Overbaugh of Cementon, Chairman of the annual dinner arrangements committee.

High Awards Given

A highlight of the Golden Jubilee Fellowship dinner was presentation of two Silver Beaver awards. These National Scouting awards are given annually to Scouters who have rendered distinguished service to youth in the Council area.

This traditional feature of the annual fellowship dinner program was conducted by Silver Beaver Committee chairman, Walter Tremper of Kingston. Assisting him were Valentine Morrow of Maplecrest, and Henry Eighmey of Kingston.

Recipients of the 1960 Silver Beaver awards were Elwood Hitchcook of East Jewett, and Anthony Zinnanti, Sr. of Catskill.

Excerpts from the citation for Mr. Hitchcock include the following: Served as Troop committee chairman, Troop 55, Tannersville, from 1952 to 1953, also as Institutional representative for this Troop (sponsored by the Lower East Jewett Metnodist Church) from 1953 to present.

He did an outstanding job as finance chairman of the Mountain District, Rip Van Winkle Council from 1957 to 1958.

In 1952 he was elected to membership on the Council executive board. During this same year he was also elected as a vice president of the Rip Van Winkle Council.

In 1958 Mr. Hitchcock was elected to the presidency of the Council, a position which he still holds.

Many Activities

Long active in church work, Mr. Hitchcock is a lay preacher in the Methodist Church. He is a member of the East Jewett Methodist Church where he has served as a Sunday School teacher, Youth Fellowship leader, President of the Methodist Mens Group and Church School superintendent. Presently he is a district superintendent of schools in Greene County.

Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock are residents of East Jewett, the parents of four children. Both of their sons, William and Thomas are Eagle Scouts.

A report on the progress of the Council finance campaign and plans for a concentrated spring clean-up drive was given by Council Vice President, Walter Balk of Woodstock.

The main address of the evening was given by Commander Thomas J. Keane, of New York City, Executive Commissioner of the Boy Scouts International Bureau. The theme of Commander Keane's talk was the "Golden Door of Scouting" in which he developed the values of Scout training in building good citizens. He also stressed the importance of Scouting ideals in developing men of good character for America's future.

Highlights of Mr. Zinnanti's Scouting service record include the following:

He has been Scoutmaster of Troop 44, sponsored by the Catskill Elks Club since 1952.

In 1957 he served as a troop leader at the 4th National Jamboree held at Valley Forge, Pa. He will also serve in the same capacity in the 5th National Jamboree to be held at Colorado Springs, Colo., this summer.

He has received the Honorary Award for outstanding work in the field of conservation. He is also honorary member of the Order of the Arrow, a camp service fraternity.

Zinnanti has long been active in the Northern District of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, where he has given leadership to volunteer training courses, camping and activity events and district finance drives.

In the town of Catskill Ziinnanti has long been active in civic and fraternal activities. He is a member of the American Legion, Republican Club, Elks Club and the Holy Name Society of his church.

Mr and Mrs. Zinnanti are residents of Catskill, their four sons, Louis, Anthony Jr., Thomas and Richard, are all active and high ranking Scouts or Explorers.

Presently Zinnanti is employed as a correctional officer at the New York State Vocational Institution in Coxsackie.

The meeting was concluded with impressive closing ceremonies conducted by Council Commissioner Sherwood Lasher of Kingston.

matter of FACT

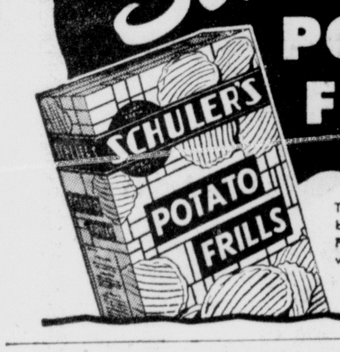

The huge stone fortresses of ancient times were almost impregnable. The battering ram was the chief weapon of attack. Defenders built thicker and stronger walls. Attackers built larger and more powerful battering rams. Sometimes whole tree trunks, 100 to 150 feet long were used. The attackers even built a roof over the battering ram protecting it from the archers on the fortress wall. It took a thousand men to move the largest rams.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wide variety of meat, fish and poultry, plus increasing supplies of fresh vegetables, are offered as bargains in supermarkets and neighborhood groceries this week.

Pork is pushed in some areas, reflecting easier prices. Pork loin is the special at some Eastern stores, while picnic hams are featured in the South and bacon in the East, Midwest and Far West. In some places bacon is tied in with beef liver.

Egg Prices Down

Frying chickens and chuck roast are specials in a number of stores and fish fanciers can choose from among scallops, shad, codfish steaks or fillets, shrimp, haddock, halibut, swordfish of pink salmon.

Egg prices came down again, falling 2 to 6 cents a dozen as supply lines were restored to normal after being disrupted for several weeks by late winter weather.

New potatoes from Florida are showing up in markets, but in small number, and produce men fear spuds may get expensive shortly. Both the Florida and California winter crops were held down by poor growing weather, cutting estimates to 3 million bags or less, a million below a year ago.

Some other California items are increasingly plentiful, however—notably asparagus, lettuce, broccoli, carrots and cauliflower. All are outstanding buys this week, along with cabbage, celery, endive, escarole, mushrooms, onions, parsley and sweet potatoes.

Other Good Buys

Good buys include beets, corn, dandelion and other cooking greens, collard, small to medium peppers, vine-ripened tomatoes and turnips. Artichokes, snap beans, cucumbers, eggplant, peas and squash are fairly expensive.

Best fruit buys are grapefruit, oranges, pineapples, bananas and Chilean honeydews.

Young Chutist, 12, Would Jump Again

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Nick Neely, 12, says of the jump that made him perhaps the world's youngest parachutist, "Sure, I'll do it again."

Nick, who stands 4½ feet and weighs 70 pounds, jumped from a plane at an altitude of 3,500 feet and landed 28 yards from a target at Skylark Field in nearby Elsinore Wednesday. He had been preparing for that jump a year.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Neely, watched him land unhurt in soft sand.

"If this is what he wants, I won't try to stop him," said his mother.

"I won't either, now that the worst is over," his father added.

Victim of Red Tape

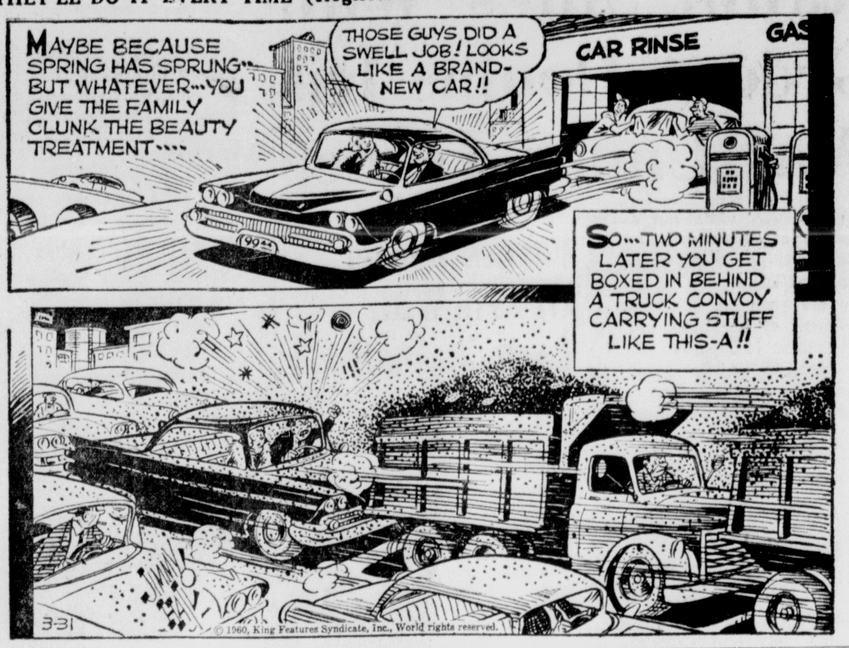

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Chinese-born Ginny Tiu is out of work today—a victim of the inscrutable Occident's red tape.

Ginny, age 6, had been singing and dancing in two shows a night at a Sunset Strip night club.

But the State Division of Labor Law Enforcement told her father, William Tiu, Wednesday that she was performing in violation of state labor laws. The agency said father Tiu must get clearance from the City School Board before applying for a labor permit for his daughter.

The father argued in vain that he tutors Ginny himself, that she is an alien and therefore not subject to state labor laws.

Smallest Pact

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Keith L. Bennett, 12 years old, believes it pays to advertise. He signed a $2 contract with an advertising agency to promote his shoeshine business.

"It's probably the smallest contract in the history of the ad business," said Richard E. Oransky, the agency man who made the sale. The firm's art department prepared a four-color leaflet which Keith will distribute around town.

Oransky, one of the lad's regular customers, said he will be paid off in 10-cent shoeshines.

Methodist Men Hear Minister Recount 'Ole Days'

The Rev. Robert Bowering, minister of the Olive Bridge Methodist Church recounted his "ole days" and experiences as a Newfoundland cod fisherman at the March meeting of Methodist Men of the Clinton Avenue Church Monday night.

The Rev. Mr. Bowering told of fishing off the coast of Labrador at the age of 12. He spent nine years as a fisherman with his father before becoming a fulltime "fisherman of men" as a Methodist minister.

Away 35 Years

After an absence of 35 years, Mr. Bowering returned to his home village in 1951. He recalled the old ways and compared them with the more modern methods of fishing for the great codfish.

"In the old days," he said, "tree bark was cut and used to cover the catch and nets, or cod traps as they were called, were soaked in bark juice to make them stronger and waterproof. Most nets used for catching cod were 15 fathoms square and 12 fathoms deep."

The minister said the mesh was not less than three and a half inches to permit the small fish to swim through and live to grow larger. "Average cod run about two and a half feet in length," he said, "and it was a matter of cork, twine, lead and mesh and barrels of pork and molasses and other supplies to last a crew of a dozen or more men from three to four months while they plied the waters of the North Atlantic for the great cod."

The Rev. Mr. Bowering pointed out that the old timers propelled their schooners by sails and the oar and 30 miles of rugged rowing a day in a 17 foot boat was the average. He told of the heavy loads of cod pulled aboard from out of the "trap" by the men dressed in heavy oil skins and hip boots and standing knee deep in the "mess."

Ton and Half Loads

Loads, he said, usually ran as high as a ton and a half. Each fisherman had his special job in the production line method of cleaning and packing the cod for sale. The clergyman fondly recalled the "headers" and "splinters" and "oil men" and said it was the first merchant of Newfoundland who staked the boat owners for a season and in turn purchased his catch at low prices.

"The system was most profitable for the merchant, but it was also the most convenient, acceptable way for a fisherman to stay in business," he said, "and they made a good living. The minister recalled the early in the morning to late at night workday of the cod fisherman. "Fish must be caught while they are running," the speaker said.

Greatest Hazards

The Rev. Mr. Bowering pointed to the greatest hazards of the day, storms and icebergs. "Being lashed to the wheel was a necessity to stay aboard in storms," he said. "Fresh water was hard to find and had to come from the top of an iceberg. When the casks were empty it meant climbing to the top of an iceberg in your woolen socks which stuck to the ice and prevented one from slipping down into the briny deep."

The minister said water was taken from the iceberg pools by raising the empty casks on ropes and filling then lowering them to the boat. "It was a rugged life but still a good one which built boys to men," the speaker said.

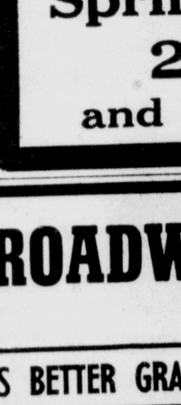

The next meeting of Methodist Men will be held Monday, April 25, and will feature a special program by the New York Telephone Company public relations department titled, "Space-Man's New Frontier." A covered dish supper for the men, their families and friends will precede the program, it was announced by Arthur G. Crist, president of Methodist Men.

Rabbi Sides With Groom, Doubts Iris Was Under Trance

NEW YORK (AP)—Iris Lashin Herman, the disillusioned and perhaps hypnotized bride, is out of hiding and looking toward her 21st birthday—when she will file for an annulment of her marriage.

Iris talked to reporters Wednesday night in a hotel room, her first public appearance since she disappeared March 23 after eloping with Albert Herman, 33, against her parents wishes.

Iris maintains she was under hypnosis when she married Herman.

Herman, a self-styled hypnotist, insists Iris "married me of her own free will."

The rabbi who married the couple indicated he agreed with Herman.

Rabbi Noah Golinkin of the Arlington County Jewish Center, Arlington, Va., said Wednesday night he saw "absolutely nothing" unusual at the time of the ceremony March 21 at Arlington.

When asked whether the pretty, 20-year-old blonde appeared to be in a trance, Rabbi Golinkin said he noticed "nothing of the kind."

Iris, whose mother and attorney were on hand for her press debut, told newsmen "I don't love him and under any circumstances ever want to see him alone again.

"The only time I will see him is in company of my attorney to make arrangements to have our marriage annuled.

"When I become 21, I will be able to prove to Herman through annulment proceedings that I do not love him and that my parents are not interfering." She will be 21 May 8.

Herman had attempted through court proceedings to see his wife again. He charged her family was hiding her.

Iris, who had been interviewed extensively by telephone while in seclusion on Long Island with her mother, said she was not being held against her will. She said:

"I wanted to get away from him and break the power he had over me.

"I feel this whole thing is ridiculous."

Favors Merger Of Erie With LackawannaRoad

NEW YORK (AP) — Merger of the Erie Railroad Co. and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Co. will create the 12th ranking line in total revenues among the nation's railroads.

An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner Wednesday recommended approval of the proposed merger. The ICC will now proceed to consider the examiner's recommendations.

The resulting company, to be known as the Erie-Lackawanna System, will cover 3,119 miles with about 7,500 miles of track. It will have 70 diesel locomotive units, 33,000 freight cars and 1,200 passenger cars. Assets will total 737 million dollars.

A spokesman for the Lackawanna Railroad said that under the merger an increase of 13½ million dollars in annual net income is expected within five years.

The merger will involve considerable realignment of operations.

Passenger service between Jersey City-Hoboken, N. J., and Chicago will be by way of Scranton, Binghamton and Buffalo, N. Y., and Youngstown, Cleveland and Akron, Ohio.

Freight trains will run from Jersey City to Port Jervis, Susquehanna and Buffalo, from where they will continue to Chicago on Lackawanna trackage.

Secondary routes will serve such points as Utica, Syracuse, Oswego and Rochester, N. Y., Kingston, Pa., Cleveland and Dayton, Ohio.

Locomotive repairs will be handled at Scranton and Hornell, N. Y., Marion, Ohio, and Hoboken.

Rule Witnesses Group Must Pay Tax on Farm

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Jehovah's Witnesses must pay taxes on its farm in Tompkins County because the "primary purpose of the land is to grow food for printers in Brooklyn," an appeals court rules.

The Appellate Division Wednesday upheld a State Supreme Court ruling that denied a review of assessments on Kingdom Farm, north of Ithaca. The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, governing body of Jehovah's Witnesses, had asked for the review.

The sect also operates the Gilead Bible School near the farm and a printing plant in Brooklyn, whose printers are called the Bethel Family.

More than half the food grown on the farm goes to the printers, the court said, while the remainder is used to feed visitors, students at the bible school or is sold on the open market.

The Appellate Division held that producing food for the printers "stretches the statutes too far to extend the exemption to the land here involved."

Local Double Sessions Within Requirements

The proposed double session program for the seventh and eighth grades meets the minimum requirements of the state education department, it was pointed out today by Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of the Kingston School District (Consolidated).

The state requires a minimum educational program of four hours at the junior high level.

The proposed double session program here lasts four hours and 13 minutes.

The local school district applied recently for approval of its double session program. State policy deplores double sessions, advocating a full five-hour day for elementary schools and a five-and-a-half-hour day for high schools. Anything less requires state education department approval prior to September 1.

The seventh and eighth grades go on double sessions next September according to the plan.

Dr. Walter Crewson, associate commissioner of education, has indicated that the present school year shows an increase of 28.2 per cent in the number of students on curtailed sessions in the state outside of New York City.

Fowler to Head CC Committee On Development

N. Jansen Fowler, attorney and a past president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, has been named as chairman of the Area Development Committee. Chamber President Norman L. McLeod announced today.

Other members of the committee are Arthur W. Buddenhagen, Robert E. Davis, Harold H. Heider, Howard A. Lewis, Roger W. Mabie, Edward C. O'Connor, Harry Rigby Jr., Howard C. St. John, John F. Schuehler, Frederick H. Stang and Robert Yallum.

Fowler has called the first meeting of this important committee for Tuesday night, April 5. They will review area problems and needs. They will then decide which should receive consideration and after careful study recommend a course of action. All members and citizens are invited to make suggestions as to projects to work on.

One of the major projects which will be considered is the Urban renewal application filed by the City of Kingston. The committee stands ready to assist in any way practical to bring about the earliest possible completion of this important project.

PARIS (AP) — Gen. Maurice Challe, commander in chief in Algeria during the French settlers' uprising in January, has been promoted to the top French post with NATO.

Rocky's Shelter Proposal Faces Rejection Today

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Much of Gov. Rockefeller's 1960 program was a shambles as this Legislature drove toward adjournment today.

The Republican-controlled Legislature, which had fought the governor frequently throughout the session, prepared to kill two more of his major recommendations—voluntary fallout shelters and federated school districts to levy nonproperty taxes.

The rejection of the fallout-shelter program was expected t cut an estimated 1½ million dollars from the $36,242,000 supplemental budget introduced Wednesday.

The budget otherwise would, in the fiscal year beginning Friday, bring state spending to an all-time high of $2,080,000,000. That includes an additional 22½ million dollars in special aid to New York City, which was approved Wednesday.

The fallout funds had been earmarked for a public - education campaign to urge voluntary construction of fallout shelters.

While the governor also held several victories for the 1960 session, many other items of the Rockefeller program had been killed or were in serious trouble in the closing hours of the Legislature.

These includes many of Rockefeller's economy proposals, his plan to provide tax-relief for nonresidents and his bill to curb racial discrimination in private housing.

Rockefeller won approval of his conditional telephone-tax Wednesday because Democrats were committed to support the plan in exchange for the New York City aid.

Governor Weighs Youth Act Repeal

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The last hours ticked away today as Gov. Rockefeller weighed repeal of a fourth postponement of application of the much criticized Youth Court Act.

The governor, as the result of legislative action in passing and sending him a series of bills which would appeal or postpone, was called upon to decide the fate of legislation originally enacted in 1956. Unless he acts before midnight, the law creating a series of special courts to deal with juvenile offenders becomes effective.

After strong objection to the new courts was voiced by county judges, law-enforcement officers and newspaper groups, the 1957 Legislature voted to postpone the effective date of the measure for a year. It was to become law in 1957.

Bill Would Probe School Financing

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — State and local financing of education—becoming more expensive and more controversial each year—would be investigated by the Legislature, under terms of a resolution before the Assembly today.

Assembly passage of the measure, which would provide $150,000 for the study, was regarded as a formality. It was passed by the Senate Wednesday night with only one negative vote.

A 14-member committee appointed by the Senate majority leader and Assembly speaker would conduct the probe and report its suggestions to the Legislature by next January—the start of the 1961 session.

Aid to education posed one of the major problems in this session. Legislation was passed that would boost state aid to schools by 99 million dollars.

Named to Head Advanced Gifts In Cancer Drive

EDWARD DeTEMPLE

Edward DeTemple of 325 Lucas Avenue, will head the advanced gifts committee of the 1960 Cancer Crusade, it was announced today by George Svirsky, general chairman.

DeTemple is division manager of methods and machine accounting at the Kingston IBM plant.

He was educated in Johnson City Schools and Albany State Teachers College, served in World War II with the U. S. Army and joined IBM in 1942.

He is a member of the VFW, Lions Club, advisory board of the Salvation Army, and the National Machine Accountants Association.

DeTemple is married and the father of three children, Edward, 3rd, 21, Audrey, 18, and Frederick, 12.

DeTemple said the No. 1 goal of the 1960 Crusade is to save one out of two of those who get cancer, compared to the one out of three saved at the present time. Funds are needed to step up the nationwide research program. The problem was never so great and all knowledge and skill must be applied to the problem, he said.

He called for a three-pronged program of research, education and service in an all-out effort to conquer cancer.

10-20 Terms Are Given 2 Dutchess Men for Holdup

Convicted of first degree robbery, second degree assault and petty larceny, two Poughkeepsie men today were sentenced to terms of 10 to 20 years by Acting County Judge W. Vincent Grady of Dutchess County.

Coleman Simmons, 27, of 112 South Water Street, was sentenced to Sing Sing prison, and Robert Lee Lawrence, 21, same address, was sentenced to the New York State Reception Center, Elmira. Both men were convicted of charges arising from a holdup at the Monte Carlo Restaurant in downtown Poughkeepsie last Jan. 4.

Regional Meeting for Hospital Auxiliaries Is Held; New Trends, Volunteers Discussed

In the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary served as host to 150 enthusiastic representatives of hospital auxiliaries from this section of the State. The occasion was the semi-annual meeting conducted under the auspices of the Hospital Council of Southeastern New York in collaboration with the Conference on Hospital Auxiliaries of the Hospital Asscciation of New York State, with Mrs. Joseph E. Zimmerman of St. Luke's Hospital Auxiliary, Newburgh, and Regional Member of the Executive Committee, in charge of the program.

During the morning session, there were four panel and discussion groups and delegates were free to attend the group of particular interest to their Auxiliaries. Mrs. Milton B. Knox, Director of Volunteers, Albany Hospital, led the informative discussion on orientation and training of volunteers. A large number of delegates attended the session dealing with the operation of gift shops, which was led by Mrs. George B. Drake Jr., with Mrs. Leonard L. Freeman, both of North Shore Hospital Manhasset, L. I. The discussion on teen-age volunteers was headed by Mrs. J. Wallace Ely of Highland Hospital, Rochester, and another group interested in the extension of volunteer service was conducted by Mrs. John Dardess of Columbia Memorial Hospital, Hudson. All of these discussions were most enlightening and inspirational.

Following a buffet luncheon in the auditorium, which was served under the direction of Thomas Bannon of the Benedictine Hospital, Mrs. Harold D. Spencer, Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Regional Member of the Council, extended greetings to the group and introduced Sister M. Berenice, Administrator of the Benedictine Hospital; Edwin Bolz, Associate Administrator of the Benedictine and Mrs. John McCardle, president, who greeted the delegates on behalf of the Benedictine Auxiliary and introduced Mrs. John A. Cooke Jr. and Mrs. Leo Kilcoyne, co-chairmen of the event. Robert Schnitzer, Administrator of the Kingston Hospital, brought greetings from the New York State Hospital Association.

Mrs. Robert N. Carson of New Rochelle, chairman of the Conference, urged the Auxiliaries to send representatives to the Middle-Atlantic Hospital Assembly in Atlantic City, N. J., on April 26 through 28.

The main speaker of the Conference was V. Earle Nicklas, assistant administrator of the Mary Imogene Basset Hospital, Cooperstown, who spoke on new trends in hospital care.

Scheduled to Sing In Religious Cantata

MARGOT REBEIL
(Blechman photo)

One of the guest soloists for "Way of the Cross," an inspiring cantata which will be presented on two Sundays, April 3 and 10 at St. Peter's Church, Kingston, will be Margot Rebeil, soprano of New York.

Miss Rebeil has been identified with contemporary music and enterprising ideas since her first major appearance when she sang the John Haussermann Concerto for voice and orchestra. She has given concerts in New York City's Town Hall and has sung under the baton of such famous conductors as Eugene Ormandy.

Appearing as guest soloist with The Philadelphia Orchestra, Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, St. Paul Civic Orchestra, Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra and Duluth Symphony Orchestra, Miss Rebeil also gave a special concert in Havana, Cuba during the Festival of American Music.

To her credit is the constant introduction of new material. At Carnegie Recital Hall in 1959, Miss Rebeil featured new works exclusively in a special concert program.

For the cantata, Miss Rebeil will sing a special descant, a musical interpretation of the grief and sorrow which overwhelmed Christ's mother during the crucifixion of her son.

MISS PARIS — Sonia Blaya, 17, wears the sash which goes with the title of "Miss Paris." She won a night club contest.

LWV Announces Its New Nominations; Full-Status Asked

Mrs. Ellsworth L. Johnson, 10 Kiersted Avenue, has been nominated for the presidency of the League of Women Voters of Kingston.

She heads the slate proposed last night at a meeting of the Provisional LWV in the Ulster County Court House. The local organization applied this week for recognition as a full-status League; action from the state and national LWV boards is expected within two months. The Kingston group meets June 13 to elect its new officers, adopt a budget for next year and choose its local current agenda item, the program to which members will give concentrated study.

Mrs. Johnson, who has served as treasurer of the Provisional League since its organization last February, was nominated for a one-year term. Also nominated were Mrs. Gifford Beal, first vice president (one year); Mrs. Ronald G. Drowns, second vice president (two years); Mrs. Bernard Bouton, secretary (one year); and Mrs. Nelson Heyer, treasurer (two years).

Nominated for directorships for two-year terms were Mrs. Abraham Greenbaum, Mrs. John Johnson and Mrs. Jacob Moss, while Mrs. Donovan F. Buehring, Mrs. Edward V. DeGroff and Mrs. David S. Gerbarg were nominated for one-year directorships. The board may also appoint additional directors, their number not to exceed six.

Mrs. John Burnett was nominated as chairman of next year's nominating committee, with Mrs. Robert S. Macdonald and Mrs. Robert S. Yallum as members of her committee. Two additional members of the committee are appointed by the president from the board.

Mrs. Melvin Mones, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the report; serving with her were Mrs. John Schomer, Mrs. Heyer, Mrs. Buehring and Mrs. Gerbarg.

The budget under which the group will operate next year was presented for members' consideration. Mrs. Kirtland F. Snyder has served as budget chairman for the past year, aided by Mrs. John Hofler, Mrs. John Burnett, Mrs. Donovan F. Buehring and Mrs. Ellsworth L. Johnson.

Mrs. Robert S. Yallum, president during the provisional period, presided over last night's session. The group discussed possible study items for next year's local program. The board will formulate a proposed proposed program and present it for a vote at the June 13 meeting.

Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs reported on publication plans for the survey of Kingston government completed over the past year by the Provisional LWV.

The local LWV will hold unit meetings, dealing with the water resources study item, Tuesday afternoon, April 26, and Wednesday evening, April 27. Mrs. Jacob Moss is in charge. The evening unit date has been arranged to avoid conflict with the Parent-Teacher Association Council forum on school board candidates April 25.

The education item will provide the topic for May units set for May 23 and 24. Mrs. Abraham Greenbaum is chairman of the study item.

The final meeting of the year is set for Wednesday, June 13, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A dessert meeting, the session will include election of officers; adoption of budget, local program and by-law changes to be effected upon recognition as a full-status League; and a panel program on national and state "Continuing Responsibilities" of the LWV.

A program on the judicial study item was presented for last night's meeting by Mrs. Robert S. Macdonald, a member of the court resource committee. She analyzed the Erwin-Lounsberry Resolution as it was passed by the New York State Legislature last week in the light of LWV standards for judicial legislation.

Mrs. Macdonald discussed the new provision for the establishment of a district court in a county; she pointed out that the original 1960 measure for this court was far inferior to that proposed last year. Pressure from the LWV and other interested citizens led to the reversal of this political compromise; the method included in the 1959 measure was substituted before passage of the resolution.

Mrs. Macdonald noted that establishment of the 11th judicial district, in Queens, is the major substantive change provided by the 1960 resolution.

The resolution must be passed by a newly elected legislature in 1961 and will then be referred to the electoate in a state-wide referendum. If passed, the resolution then is substituted for the present judiciary article in the state constitution.

Births

Births recorded here recently included the third set of twins, to date, this year.

They are Gerald and Robert born March 20 at the Benedictine Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. David Richard Aubel, 87 Abeel Street.

Other births recorded recently were:

March 20—Barry Stephen to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kiersted, Jr., 30 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion, and Bruce Richard to Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Ralston Jr., 21 Parkside Drive, Lake Katrine.

March 22 — Kevin Marie to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lezette, 138 Ulster Avenue; Kathleen to Mr. and Mrs. John Leo Smith, Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine; William Henry to Mr. and Mrs. John Bush, 77 Hasbrouck Avenue; Wendy Sue to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Charles Albrecht, 28 Plattekill Drive, Mt. Marion; Jeri Lynn to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gerald Styles, Cottekill, and George Francis to Mr. and Mrs. Richard William Wenzel, 183 Salem Street, Port Ewen.

Mrs. Eisenhower Honorary Head Of '60 Crusade

Mrs. Dwight David Eisenhower will again be the honorary national chairman of the American Cancer Society's April Crusade, it was announced today by Chairman George Svirsky of the local crusade.

He said Mrs. Eisenhower, who has held the post since 1953, considers the crusade an opportunity to help save many more lives from cancer and raise essential funds for a nationwide research attack against our No. 2 killer.

In accepting the position Mrs. Eisenhower said, "I was pleased to learn that you, at the American Cancer Society, are planning an even more expansive cancer crusade for 1960 and I want you to know that I will be happy to continue lending my support as honorary national chairman. It is reassuring to know of the large number of our fellow citizens who, through the efforts of your organization, have been cured of cancer. Let us hope that this increased program for the coming year will bring even greater results than before."

Svirsky said stress will be placed on alerting many more people in the county of the need for health checkups and to be aware of cancer's seven danger signals. "One million Americans are now cured of cancer and our aim is to multiply this number significantly through our own efforts locally."

Natchez, Miss., founded in 1716, is the oldest city on the Mississippi River.

Passover Meals

Jewish people will celebrate Passover from April 12 through 19 this year and during this time will serve meals influenced by Jewish Passover laws and customs that date back more than 3,000 years. Homemakers prepare their households for the holiday and adjust food shopping and menu plans to the foods permitted. During Passover the Jewish dietary laws forbid the eating of any food that has been leavened or has come into contact with leavenings. Peas, corn, beans, rice and grains or cereals, such as wheat, rye, oats, and buckwheat are not eaten during the 8-day period.

Seders highlight Passover

meals. All days in the Jewish year begin at sundown, and so at sundown on the fourteenth of the Hebrew month of Nissan, April 11 this year, Jewish people will gather at the Sedar table to recount the story of the Exodus of their people from slavery in Egypt. The Sedar nights are the first two nights of Passover. They combine religious ceremony with an elaborate meal. The word Sedar means order and a special order is followed during the ceremony. The order of the Sedar is described in the Haggadah, a book that tells the story of Passover and explains the meaning of the Sedar's symbolic foods.

A roasted egg—believed by some to be a token of grief for the destruction of the Temple, by others to be a symbol of spring.

Moror—bitter herbs usually horseradish, a reminder of the bitterness of slavery.

Charoses—a mixture of nuts, apples and wine, a symbol of the mortar of bricks that the Israelites made, and of God's kindness which made slavery easier to bear.

Karpas—celery, parsley, or potato to be dipped in salt water, a symbol of spring, hope, and redemption.

Wiltwyck Unit

Due to the absence of Mrs. Harry Van DeMark, leader, the class on care of houseplants for home decoration originally scheduled for April 5, has been postponed. However, there will be a covered dish luncheon at the rooms on Broadway starting at 11 a. m. for Wiltwyck Unit members and friends. Members are asked to bring their own place settings and the recipes of their dishes so that they may be sold to other members present.

A brief business meeting will start at 1 p. m. at which time plans for the annual summer luncheon will be discussed.

A senior at the Academy of St. Ursula, Agatha has participated in many of the dramatic and musical presentations at that school. During her junior year she was the choreographer and instructor of the dance groups in the operetta, "Bernadette of Lourdes."

After graduating from the Academy of St. Ursula, where she is presently a member of the National Honor Society, literary editor of Our Marygrove, yearbook, and activity editor of The Echoes, a semi-annual school publication, she plans to enter Georgetown Visitation Junior College, Georgetown, Washington, D. Sees Decrease Of Dairy Farm In Northeast

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A 25 per cent drop in the number of dairy farms in the northeast can be expected during the 1960s, an economist forecast today.

Dr. L. C. Cunningham of the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University was among several speakers at the opening of the two-day, 25th annual meeting of the Northeastern Dairy Conference.

Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey was to address the conference tonight.

A continuing trend of specialization, mechanization and emphasis on volume production will mean further discontinuance of many small herds, Cunningham said. These herds will be absorbed into larger, more highly mechanized farms, a frequent sight these days.

So-called sideline operations on farms, such as laying hens, cash crops, sheep, beef cattle, fruit and maple products are being abandoned in favor of more dairy cattle and feed crops, Cunningham added in a prepared talk.

WRITING TO HIS MARRIED BROTHER

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a brother in the service who writes to me quite regularly. He always addresses his letters to me alone and begins, "Dear Bill," excluding my wife entirely except for adding, "give my best to Mary" at the end of the letter. My wife seems to thiink that he is being very impolite to her by not addressing his letters to Mr. and Mrs., and is making quite an issue of this. I think she is all wrong in feeling as she does and that there is definitely no discourtesy in his writing to me alone.

Answer: When your brother writes to you, it is not necessary that he include your wife. I think "Giving his best to Mary" is sufficient, and to expect that he include her in every letter he writes to you is unreasonable.

The White Runner at a Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell us when the white runner, is put down at a wedding? A friend and I have been having an argument about this. She says it is put down before any of the guests arrive and I say it is put down just before the wedding procession starts up the aisle. Which one of us is right?

Answer: Since its sole object is to protect the freshness of the bride's train from the dust, or possible mud in bad weather, from the shoes of the guests, it is rolled (unrolled actually) up the aisle just before the wedding procession begins.

Sugar That Is Not Wrapped

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to take lump sugar (I mean in a private house where each piece is not wrapped the way it usually is in a restaurant) with the fingers, or if there are no sugar tongs, must one use a spoon or whatever other clean implement that is handy?

Answer: When helping yourself to sugar you use your fingers, of course, but when you are putting sugar into a cup for someone else, you should use a teaspoon when there are no tongs.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her booklet No. 501, entitled "Etiquette of Letter Writing," send 25 cents in coin to Dept. • BRIDGE

Bridge Foes Also Think

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The ethics of bridge allows a player to think when he has a problem but does not countenance huddles with a singleton or when his only play is a choice between low cards.

It is also highly proper and good policy for declarer to take a little time to plan the whole play before playing from dummy at the first trick.

South did this and noted that his entire plan for the slam depended on getting out with one heart loser. Put both the ace and queen of hearts in one hand and he would either make the hand or go down depending on where they were. Split the heart honors and there would be a guess.

After this thought South decided to put some pressure on West. He won the diamond lead in his own hand and promptly placed the four of hearts on the table.

Unfortunately for South, West had studied the hand also. He had seen that the only way to beat the slam was with two heart tricks and was ready with the seven of hearts.

West's apparent unconcern decided South. He played dummy's ten of hearts and another slam had bit the dust.

Ban on Flights Near Test Site Lifted by France

PARIS (AP) — France lifted a ban on flights near her atomic test ground in the Sahara today a few hours before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was due back in Paris for a final round of talks with President Charles de Gaulle.

The flight ban, necessary prelude to France's second atomic test explosion, was in effect for only 3 hours and 5 minutes. A spokesman for the French Defense Ministry said there had been no test blast, but he would not clarify whether one had been planned and canceled or whether the aircraft warning was only a practice alert.

A French atomic explosion while Khrushchev was still on French soil would certainly have angered the Soviet Premier and would have heightened the chill at his talks with De Gaulle Friday and Saturday The atmosphere will probably be chilly enough as a result of Khrushchev's repeated public criticism of West Germany, with which De Gaulle has closely allied France.

Khrushchev told an impromptu news conference aboard his special train Wednesday he was against anyone exploding any more atomic weapons.

Before France's first atomic explosion at Reggane Feb. 13, an aircraft alert was ordered in January. But the flight ban was canceled before it took effect.

Fired Monitor To Appeal Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence T. Smith, fired after he refused to resign as a court-appointed Teamsters Union monitor, says he will appeal his ouster to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Smith said he knew of "no conceivable reason" for his dismissal and added he could be removed only for cause. He has been voting against Monitor Chairman Martin F. O'Donoghue on methods for cleaning up the Teamsters Union headed by James R. Hoffa.

U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts Wednesday ordered Smith's immediate removal as a monitor. He gave no reason, but said he acted after Smith rejected the judge's request that he resign.

Smith, a New York attorney, has taken the position that the monitors were focusing almost all their attention on steps aimed at removing Hoffa from the union's presidency.

Smith contended that a a result the monitors have neglected other work—especially complaints from union members about the way their officials have conducted union affairs. He said O'Donoghue's methods "will let Hoffa and the worst hoodlums escape justice."

TESTING REFLEXES — Biology students at the Onteora Central School are proving for themselves that it pays to be cautious when driving. As part of their regular study of the anatomy and physiology of the human nervous system, the students are here pictured testing their reflexes such as: reaction time, the length of time required to react to a signal; side-vision, the angle at which an object from the side comes into view; depth perception, judgment of different objects at different distances; and stability, moving in a straight line without wavering. This is an example of inter-departmental cooperated by Dr. Alfred J. Di Caprio, biology teacher, and Edward Hearn, teacher of driver education, who provided the equipment necessary for the tests.

Onteora P-TA Will Present Huguenot Dancers April 9

The Huguenot Dancers will be presented by the Onteora P-TA at the Boiceville School on April 9 at 3 p. m. The program has been planned and choreographed expressly for young people.

Director of this dance group is Mary Jane Wolbers, who since graduation from the University of Wisconsin with an MS degree in Dance, has dedicated herself to creating an understanding and appreciation of dance as an art form through her concert groups.

Mrs. Wolbers has taught and performed in many states and these special matinee programs were a result of the creative efforts of mothers, teachers-to-be, and students. They have proved to be of invaluable experience to performer and audience alike. Mrs. Wolbers is an accomplished performer herself and has done a considerable amount of solo work, as well as preparing the choreography for plays and operas.

Program Explained

In order that the youngsters may more fully understand the meaning of dance, the program is opened with a brief demonstration entitled: "What Are Dances Made Of." An element of audience participation is included to involve the children in theoretical and actual dance material. The accompaniment of one of the dances will be provided by the audience. One of the highlights of the program is a story-ballet based on the tale of "The Easter Bunny That Overslept."

Appearing with the Huguenot Dancers as guest artist will be Alfred Douglas, who is of Cherokee Indian ancestory. Douglas has performed exclusively in this area for schools, organizations and historical societies and has made a considerable contribution toward furthering the understanding of the American Indian dances. With Mr. Douglas will be his son, Ross, who provides percussion accompaniment for many of his dances.

This concert will undoubtedly be a happy and exciting experience for everyone.

No admission will be charged after the performance and refreshments will be available in the cafeteria. Should anyone wish transportation, they may call Mrs. G. St. Pierre or Mrs. Gordon Anderson and arrangements will be made.

Kerhonkson Boy Gets Eagle Award

An Eagle Scout award was presented to Peter LeBoeuf at a court of honor held recently by Kerhonkson Boy Scout Troop 22 at the Kerhonkson Firehall.

A supper for the Scouts and their parents was served at 6:30 p. m. and was followed by a brief address to the parents by the new Scoutmaster, Robert Case, who clarified the troop's program for the year.

The guests then had an opportunity to view several Scoutcraft exhibits which were shown by the various troop patrols including a camping scene in which a tent and other equipment, similar to that used on the recent cold-weather campout, displayed in a realistic setting.

The formal ceremonies began with buglar Lynn Johnson playing "To the Colors" as the troop entered and the colors were advanced. The audience rose for the Pledge of Allegiance, and the Invocation was given by the Rev. Paul Babich.

Guest speaker David Chait, Rondout Valley District chairman, spoke regarding the deep and lasting effect that Scouting has on those who take part in it.

Richard Spada, senior patrol leader, then brought forward the candidate Scouts and according to tradition assured former Scoutmaster Fred Sherman that the boys had fulfilled all the requirements for becoming Tenderfoot Scouts and that he vouched for them personally.

The candlelighting ceremony followed, in which 15 candles were lighted to symbolize the 12 points of the Scout Law and the three parts of the Scout Oath. The candidates knelt in a circle around the flag to give the Oath, and when they arose were greeted as Tenderfoot Scouts. Their parents came forward as the boys received their pins, and each mother was given a miniature pin to wear. The boys who were awarded Tenderfoot rank were:

First Class, Lynn Johnson.

Star Scout, Edward Bress, Lyn Johnson.

Life Scout, Philip Spada.

The highlight of the Court of Honor came when Troop Committeeman John Lathrop called for the Honor Guard to escort Scout Peter LeBoeuf to the center of the stage. Scoutmaster Case gave a resume of Peter's Scout record and then read aloud a letter of acceptance from the Eagle Board of Review.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice LeBoeuf were brought forward by the Honor Guard to observe the presentation of the Eagle award. The Scoutmaster turned the award over to Mr. LeBoeuf who pinned the silver eagle with its red, white and blue ribbon to his son's uniform, bestowing on him the highest rank in Scouting.

Eagle Scout LeBoeuf then received from Mr. Lathrop his framed Certificate of Eagle Rank, and a letter of commendation from Arthur A. Schuck, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

The program closed with Case giving the Scoutmaster's Benediction.

Liven Up Your Easter Table With Playful White Bunnies

MERRY Easter ice cream bunny snuggles in his caramel nest. Ingredients are simple, the making is quick, eating's great.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise
Food and Markets Editor

What would Easter be without a few white bunnies playing among the daffodils? Or for that matter, made of marshmallows, sitting atop a gleaming cake, or, made of ice cream, at peace with the world in a caramel nest? Slightly giddy, of course, but springtime engenders the spirit of happy frivolity.

Bunny Easter Nests
(Makes about 6 desserts)

One cup (6 ounces) caramel chips, 2 cups alphabet oat cereal, ½ cup chopped nuts.

Melt chips over hot water. Remove from hot water, add cereal and nuts and mix well. Drop by ½ cup amounts onto waxed paper and shape into nests.

Note: To Make Bunny's Head: Place a scoop of vanilla ice cream in nest. Split a ladyfinger in half for ears, use gumdrops for the eyes, mouth, and nose and thin licorice strips for whiskers.

EASTER DINNER: Clam bisque, roast turkey, celery stuffing, giblet gravy, certified cranberry sauce, new potatoes with fresh parsley, fresh or frozen peas, soft rolls, butter or margarine, lettuce and grapefruit sections, oil and lemon juice dressing, strawberries and cream, golden cake with pistachio icing topped with marshmallow bunnies, coffee, tea, milk.

NEW YORK (AP) — The consumer seems less sure than the bankers that the threat of further inflation is a dead duck right now.

The guardians of our money tend to judge inflation by whatever money is tight or plentiful, whether interest rates are rising or falling. Right now money and credit are easier and many types of interest charges are slipping.

New Threat Delayed

So the money managers in Washington and the bankers around the nation see the threat of another spurt of inflation allayed.

Consumers have another yardstick: How much it costs them to live as they want to, and how much it may cost them later on. If it costs them more, or seems likely to in the future, price inflation isn't an academic question for consumers—no matter of statistics and charts—it's just a hard fact of life.

And right now, consumers are well aware of the rising costs of services that raise the total of their outgo each year.

Surveys of their buying intentions—that popular horoscope for retailers and manufacturers—show that consumers think prices of many things are likely to go on rising. That makes today look like a better time to buy than later, if they can find the money or the credit to do so.

Costs Still Soaring

The government's report that the cost-of-living index was at its peak in February and still is headed that-a-way surprised a few consumers.

And a glowing report this week by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center that three out of four Americans think good times will be around for 12 months more ended on this note: "The only dark point is concern with inflation."

At least two-thirds of the families questioned expect higher prices.

How much that colors their expressed intentions of buying more items big and small this year the center doesn't venture to assay.

But for trade and industry the big thing is that they say they are in more of a buying mood, and not why they are.

The survey taken in the first months of this year shows a decided improvement in consumer confidence over the previous one in November, when the steel strike and its possible aftermaths colored most thinking.

6-Day Taxi Halt Over in Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A six-day work stoppage at the city's largest taxi company which is headed by a convicted Apalachin delegate, ended Wednesday night.

Drivers at the Van Dyke Taxi & Transfer Inc., voted 285 to 173 against representation by Teamster Joint Council 46. Pickets, posted when the council and management failed to reach agreement on contract terms, were withdrawn.

John C. Montana is president of the company. He was convicted along with 19 other Apalachin delegates last January by a federal grand jury. He was sentenced to four years in jail and fined $10,000. He is free in bail pending an appeal.

Boy Witness Says He Lied About Buffalo Killing

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Police say a 15-year-old boy, on whose tip they arrested Eric V. Askew in the fatal beating of a druggist, has admitted he lied in the identification.

A first-degree murder charge against Askew was dropped Wednesday on a motion by Dist. Atty. Carmen F. Ball. Ball told City Court Judge Joseph P. Kuszynski the charge was "based on an identification that constituted perjury."

Askew, 21, was arrested Tuesday in a round-up prompted by the teen-agers information.

"First I was just kidding, then I guess I had to say something," police quoted the unidentified youth as saying.

He was held for children's court action.

Joseph Zax, 57, was beaten in his store March 23 and died the next day.

It was not determined if narcotics were taken in the robbery-slaying, but police said they were seeking a dope addict. About $25,000 in money orders and $100 in cash was taken.

Jets Defeat Blades In EHL Series Game

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The Johnstown Jets have a slim 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Hockey League championship series with the New Haven Blades.

The Jets took a 4-2 win Wednesday night over the Blades. The second game of the series will be played here Friday.

In Wednesday night's game, Blades playing coach Wally Kullman scored in the first period. Then Johnstown put in three goals and never lost the lead. Don Hall, Ken Coombes, John Lumley and Stan Parker scored for the winners, while Claude Boileau made the second New Haven goal.

Postpone Testimonial For Peter Keresman

The testimonial dinner planned for Peter Keresman, founder of the Kingston Bowling Association, has been postponed from April 9 to Saturday, June 25, the committee has announced.

The original date was in conflict with several bowling events, including the ABC tournament and the national convention. Several officers on the state and national level had expressed a desire to attend but could not because the ABC convention in Toledo fell on the same night.

Efforts will be made to retain Andy Varipapa as the testimonial speaker.

3 Other Cities In Bidding for Prize Pin Plum

The Kingston Woman's Bowling Association makes its bid for the 1962 New York State Women's Championships, at Geneva on Saturday night.

Arrayed against the Kingston bid will be proposals from city associations representing Albany, Poughkeepsie and Jamestown.

Kingston was host to the state championships in 1950.

The caravan of official delegates heads for Geneva starting early Friday, with the full group expected to arrive by Friday night when politicking among the delegates reaches a furious crescendo.

Bids will be formerly entered at a breakfast meeting Saturday morning and the voting takes place, along with other NYSWBA business, at a Saturday night convention session scheduled to start at 7 p. m.

KWBA president Nell Glennon and her official staff are optimistic about Kingston's chances. They have worked diligently for several months, raising funds and mapping strategy designed to bring approximately 15,000 bowlers to the city in 1962.

Accompanying the delegation will be Mayor Edwin F. Radel, Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and Ronald Drowns, manager of the Governor Clinton Hotel. Other local citizens outside the bowling ranks will attend.

On Carnival Theme

The KWBA has designed a brilliant carnival theme to woo delegates. There will be booths, exhibits and other features with Vote for Kingston buttons prominently on display.

Appearing in special numbers will be: Ethel Henderson as Madame Fifi; Sis Balish as the Bearded Lady; Beverly Tefft as the Tattooed Lady and Mickey Hendricks as the Fat Lady.

Strongest competition is expected to come from Poughkeepsie association which has Mrs. Anne Happel on the state board as treasurer.

On the eve of departure for Geneva, Mrs. Glennon, the KWBA president, said she was overwhelmed by the cooperation she had received from the women bowlers and other persons in the community.

"We have left no stone unturned in our preparations," she said. "I'm gratified by the cooperation and the hard work done by our girls. Our fate now rests with the delegates."

New Bowling Alleys Planned in Woodstock

Shultis Corner Area Picked for Location

Zerek Enterprises of Woodstock and Garrity Lumber of Albany today announced plans to build a new 14-lane bowling establishment in the Woodstock area.

The joint enterprise will be located on Route 12 near Shultis Corner.

Ground breaking is scheduled for mid-April, with the opening tentatively planned around Sept. 1.

The establishment will be an AMF installation of the most modern design and of strand steel construction. The alley beds will be on a sunken level for the split level design.

There will be a cocktail lounge on the second deck, with locker rooms downstairs. Ample parking space will be available.

Joseph Garrity of the Albany corporation is already in the bowling business as part of a syndicate which operates the Latham Bowl near Albany. The venture is the first in the bowling field for the Zerek company.

The Zerek-Garrity announcement culminates several months of recurring reports that a bowling alley would be built in Woodstock township. Several locations were mentioned before the new group came up with its announcement.

BOSTON (NEA) — Big Bill Russell refutes the theory that it is all offense and no defense in the National Basketball Association "I'm playing a game that is eight minutes longer than college teams play," says the Boston Celtics' six-foot-10 rebounder. "I should be better than I was in school, but even so my scoring average isn't as high as it was in college. "Somebody must be guarding in our league."

Perkins Slams Rollins to Win Lightweight KO

CHICAGO (AP) — Chico Rollins' effort to make an impressive showing in his national TV ring debut was marred Wednesday night by a gashed left eyebrow.

The New York lightweight was kept from answering the bell for the seventh round in Chicago Stadium because of the cut and Chicago's Eddie Perkins gained a technical knockout victory.

The eyebrow was cut in the fourth round and bled profusely. Dr. John Pribble of the Illinois Athletic Commission examined the wound and told Referee Frank Sikora to halt the fight.

It went as a seventh round TKO for Perkins, boosting his record to 17-7. The defeat was Rollins' second in 12 starts.

Perkins weighted 137½ to 136½ for Rollins.

Burton Bodie and Bob Rundle slapped in solo scores for the Trojans as the team battled to a 2-2 tie with the league leading Crusaders in YMCA floor hockey Tuesday. In another fast game the Leaders nipped the Warriors 7-6.

With one more round of games left to be played, the Crusaders will attempt to win the title next week against the Warriors. The Leaders will clash with the Crusaders in another tilt. Games are carded for Wednesday at 3:30 and 4 p. m.

Larry Short flipped in two goals for the Crusaders in the Tuesday event. Bibbs Kirn clouted in three for the losing Warriors while Mike Van Valkenburgh and Ted Lewis popped in single counts.

Kingston High Baseball Squad Is Missing Key Veterans

Nicholson Clouts Two Hits But Orioles Lose to Reds

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

At age 18, Dave Nicholson pocketed $102,000 and the keys to a new car. Then he left his St. Louis home to play baseball for the Baltimore Orioles, he hoped.

That was in 1958, and the husky bonus outfielder still hasn't won a job with Baltimore.

First it was Knoxville, then down to Class B Wilson, N.C. and finally to Dublin, Ga. of the Class D Georgia State League in 1958. He started 1959 at Double A Amarillo, but after 13 games he was hitting only .222 and it was on to Aberdeen of the Northern League where he finished out the season with a .288 average, 35 home runs and 114 runs batted in.

Now the 20-year-old right-handed power hitter is at Miami in training with the Orioles, and he seems to be closer than ever to Baltimore.

In an exhibition game against the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday, Nicholson homered, singled and had three runs batted in, although the Orioles lost 12-9.

In other Florida games, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Yankees 6-2 at St. Petersburg, the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Milwaukee Braves 7-2 at Vero Beach, the Chicago White Sox shaded the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 at Sarasota, and the Washington Senators outlasted the Philadelphia Phillies 11-10 at Orlando. Kansas City and Detroit were not scheduled.

In Arizona, the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Francisco Giants 13-10 at Mesa, and the Boston Red Sox stopped the Cleveland Indians 5-2 at Tucson.

Army Football Coaches Set To Expand Offense for Ends

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Army's football coaches hope to expand and exploit their lonely end offense next fall to a greater extent than ever before, even though they won't have the stars who made it work for the past two years.

"The simplest way to put it is that we're going back to a running attack more than we have in the past two years," said Head Coach Dale Hall during spring practice.

"We have some new ideas we are going to try—to take advantage of the running situations the formation offers."

Hall wasn't just being modest when he used the pronoun "we." Ever since his predecessor, Earl Blaik, convinced his staff of the feasibility of this radical move of setting an end far apart from the rest of the team and not even bringing him into the huddle, the entire Army staff has been contributing fresh ideas on how to make the most of the formation.

Hall still looks unbelieving when he talks about last season, his first as head coach. Bob Anderson, a great running back, hurt a knee in the second game and never fully recovered. The first three fullbacks all went out. Hall counted 28 major injuries — and he doesn't call them "major" unless the player misses two games.

"In a way it was a blessing because it forced us to play a lot of fresh young kids. They got some experience they wouldn't have had if the others weren't injured," Hall said.

Those are the ones Hall is counting on this year. Nine places on the first two teams must be filled.

Top Golf Pros Ready for Open Tourney Today

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—The $15,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament, which has been gaining a reputation as a conditioner of Augusta Masters champions in recent years, opens today.

The 72-hole tournament runs through Sunday over the par 72 6,651 yards of the Cape Fear Country Club course.

Arnold Palmer, the year's leading money winner, and Mike Souchak, are passing up the Azalea in favor of practice at Augusta.

Art Wall, who won here last spring and followed with an Augusta victory a week later, has been shelved with a bad knee. But most of the other top pros are in the record field of 150.

In nine of its 11 previous years the tournament here has come a week ahead of the Masters. Four times players in the top 10 here went on to win at Augusta.

Taylor Lost to Cubs At Least Two Weeks

MESA, ARiz. (AP) — Catcher Sammy Taylor will be lost to the Chicago Cubs for at least two weeks because of a ruptured blood vessel in the bicep of his right arm. He also has a muscular shoulder strain.

Shoulder Is Tight

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The shoulder that has been bothering Herb Score for several weeks tightened up again Tuesday after the southpaw pitched two innings against the Boston Red Sox. He started the exhibition game at Scottsdale, giving up two runs. The Indians won 7-6.

Locals Slated To Open Season On April 20th

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Last season the Kingston High baseball team finished its DUSO League play with a 2-6 record. It had an overall mark of 6-7. This time around, the record doesn't figure to be as good. Coach Al Gruner, starting his sixth year as head coach of the game commonly called, "America's Pastime," has one of his greenest squads. In other words, he's starting from scratch.

Gone via the graduation route are such stalwarts as pitchers Bob Beadle and Bill McDermott; catcher John Parete; infielders Chick Boice, Dave O'Connor and outfielders Hobie Armstrong and John Bruck. Gary Barnes, the regular third baseman in 1959, has not reported this season. He's hitting the books.

The losses will be felt. Beadle, the plucky lefthander, was the top chucker on the staff, Parete was the league's best catcher and its "Player of the Year." Boice started at first and is now trying his luck with the New York Yankees. O'Connor, the lanky shortstop, is playing frosh baseball at Rutgers University. Armstrong and Bruck were two starting outfielders.

Not Many Vets

The only vets who played under fire are Paul Gardner, who figures to be the ace hurler; Mike Spada, another pitcher; Jim Rua, starting second baseman and Terry Corkery, a starting outfielder.

There are several others who were on the varsity last season but who didn't play much. They include catchers John Hetsco and Richie Sickler, first baseman Ken Jadoff, shortstop Walt Harder, third baseman-shortstop Tom Gardner and outfielders Charles Manfro and Sickler, who can play in the outer pastures as well as work with the tools of ignorance behind the dish.

Several jayvee performers are expected to fill the ranks. They include Jim Bruck and Eric Broberg, a pair of infielders; Bill Murphy, a pitcher and outfielders George Tomson and Al Gruner.

Many Newcomers

Catching prospects are Joe Bianco, Frank Allen and Paul Natale. Infield hopefuls are Tyrone Perry, Tom Gerber, Ronald Secreto, Joe Cavano, John Sabin, Richard Murphy and Gerry Hawkins. Outfield prospects are Herb Hohmann, Frank Reed, Barry Bliss and Harold Broskie.

Several jayvee performers from the 1959 season have not reported to date. They include infielder Mike Ferraro, catcher Doug Mellin, and outfielders Bill Boice and Richie Barnhardt. Herb Schultz has transferred to a school in Dutchess County.

Open At Roosevelt

The locals open their season at Roosevelt High on April 20. Fourteen games are scheduled with eight of them taking place in the DUSO League.

Coach Gruner feels Poughkeepsie and Newburgh will be very strong and he leans slightly towards the Pioneers to win the title. He has had the local candidates outdoors only once and emphasized that every spot on the club is open.

Pitchers and catchers have been working indoors for about a week and a half. When the boys do move outdoors, the battery candidates should be somewhat ahead of the stickers.

One thing is certain. This could be a long, lean year for the baseball nine. Only time will tell.

The schedule:

Chess Club Moves To New Building

The Kings Knight Chess Club opens its spring season at a new location, the Elks Lodge on Fair Street, Friday, April 8, at 8 o'clock.

John Mager, president, said the club is now accepting memberships. A tournament scheduled will be announced in the near future.

Free Ski Service Will End Friday

The 24-hour free ski information service made available by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will be discontinued tomorrow, April 1.

During the entire winter season the Chamber of Commerce made arrangements, through the Telephone Answering Service, to receive and give out reports from cooperating area ski centers. This was done as a public service and for the convenience of the many local residents and visitors interested in skiing. The number of calls handled indicate a need for this service on a 24-hour basis.

Mayer Earns Sixth Calder Cup Shutout

Cleveland goalie Gil Mayer doesn't push the panic button in a Calder Hockey Cup playoff series.

The veteran goalie got his sixth Calder Cup shutout Wednesday night, blanking the Rochester Americans 2-0 to give his team a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven semifinal series. American Hockey League champion Springfield also took a 1-0 lead in its series with Providence, winning 3-1.

Mayer, who shut out the Amerks on their home ice twice during the regular season, made it No. 3 while turning aside 22 Rochester shots. Greig Hicks scored one goal for Cleveland and Bill Dineed added the other.

Springfield took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Dennis Olson and Bill Sweeney. Kent Douglas added the third while Stan Baluik scored for Providence.

Cleveland and Rochester resume their series Friday night in Rochester. The other two clubs play Saturday night in Springfield.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

See Opening Day Conditions For Trout Far From Ideal

The condition of Saugerties area streams for opening of the trout season Friday will be far from ideal, according to field reports made available by a represenntative group of area fishermen.

Water temperatures in Saugerties area streams have been slightly above freezing, hardly a favorable climate to make native or even stocked trout hungry for the opening day garden hackle on the menu.

Vincent Berzal, a very active member of Saugerties Fish and Game Club uses the scientific approach and thereby saves a lot of aggravation and lost time. He explained that trout in water near the freezing mark are very inactive and therefore require very little food to subsist. Consequently if the stream water is too cold there will be very few bites.

However when the water warms up a bit, the trout begin to forage and with this increased activity need more food to replenish the energy expended.

Stream temperatures rose considerably following today's and Wednesday's rain with Blue Mountain streams registering 39 degrees and slightly less closer to the mountain at West Saugerties.

However as ice and snow fell into the streams, temperatures dropped and water levels rose about six inches.

If the thaw continues with additional rain, opening day fishermen can expect to find high roily water carrying varying amounts of debris.

The Sun rising at 5:42 will be as welcome as a thermos of hot broth or coffee to those thoughtful enough to think of their stomachs during this annual spring crisis.

Last year's opening day temperature in most area waters was 34 degrees, however, the water became slightly colder the closer one came to the mountain areas where snow and ice was melting into the water. The Plattekill last year was 34 degrees and was only six inches above normal and clear. Although not the most favorable of conditions, fishing was fair for the opening day enthusiasts.

On the second day last year the water level rose four feet and became roily creating bad fishing conditions.

It must be remembered that conditions and the possibility of catching the limit on opening day depends largely on the skill and luck of the fisherman. A few of those venturing the cold early morning hours of opening day may declare that conditions were ideal because they made a lucky catch, while for the great majority that brave the early season, conditions will be described as poor.

Many pools in the Blue Mountain and West Saugerties area still had sheets of ice in them Thursday, but the warm rain Wednesday eliminated that unfavorable condition.

However, conditions are not expected to dismay the stout-hearted piscatorial hunters who like the postman will venture forth on opening day despite wind, rain, snow or sleet.

The Wednesday rain was a blessing to young worm salesmen who gathered their stock for opening day sales.

Some of the early season sportsmen will tell you that the ideal bait at this time is minnows or shiners, others will use only spinners for the opening day onslaught.

The limited number of strikes can not be blamed on scanty supply however. In addition to native trout and hatchery fish distributed previously, 1,570 State Conservation Department yearlings and some older were distributed in recent weeks throughout the approved fishing haunts by the local fish and game club.

Nearly 100,000 trout, most of which have already been planted are on the conservation department program for distribution in Ulster County streams. Of these nearly 7,000 will be distributed or already have been planted in Saugerties area streams.

In addition to this, Saugerties Fish and Game Club will purchase 1,000 trout for May distribution.

Fly fishermen, the so-called purists, will scoff at the antics of opening day addicts and wait for warm weather when hatch makes its first appearance on the waters.

One thing is sure, opening day bag limits and tales of the one that got away will head the topic of conversation among area sportsmen for weeks to come, someone somewhere will come up with a big catch that will top them all.

School Building Will Be Voted On Sometime in June

A time schedule has been set up by the Board of Education to give the voters a chance to approve a new building sometime in June.

The architects will meet once more with the advisory committee April 1, then with the board April 4, and again April 18, before going to the New York State Department of Education to secure its approval of the plans.

The plans currently call for a two-story building on the present Junior-Senior High School site, and attached to the east and north sides of the present building. It will be approximately 6600 square feet in size, and will accommodate approximately 1,000 pupils.

Local census figures show that the new building will be full about as soon as it is completed, if not before. The board estimates that beginning next September all of the kindergarten children and all of the third grade children in the Saugerties Central Schools will be on a shortened school day schedule; that the following year additional groups of grade children, and several groups of high school pupils will begin shortened attendance.

The architects recommend that the new building be two stories in height and located on the single rocky area of the present high school site in order to avoid piling so far as possible. Some piling will be necessary, nevertheless, but rock excavation will also be necessary at some points, and this is considered to be as expensive as piling.

No crawl space is planned for the new building because of the nature of the sub-soil. Accordingly, hot water heat, rather than hot air, will be used. It is not anticipated that this will materially alter the cost of the heating units. The architects believe that the installation of one additional boiler in the present high school boiler room, when used in conjunction with the present boilers, will be adequate to heat boat buildings.

Thirty-five teaching stations, a library room, and a gym are planned, in addition to the other necessary areas, such as administration and health. Some economies will be affected by constructing the new building adjacent to the present one. The economies include joint use of the present auditorium; partial use of the present shops thereby necessitating the building of only one additional shop room and joint use of the present kitchen facilities.

Methodists Set Group Meetings To Discuss Plans

Two important commissions of Saugerties Methodist Church will meet next week, to draft plans for the future development of the church.

Tuesday, 7:30 p. m. in the parish house, the membership and evangelism commission will meet with its chairman, James Thompson, to complete its work on the neighborhood group plan of church organization.

A special map committee, John Whritenor, Gerald Rosenberger, Lee Eyler and James Thompson, have prepared two maps, one of the village of Saugerties and its suburbs, and one of the Town of Saugerties.

Map tacks have been inserted in these maps to indicate the location of all church members in the area. These have been grouped into neighborhood units of about 10 families each.

Tuesday night, the commission will select neighborhood group leaders. These 30 couples will meet at a latter date to discover their duties, and learn the details of the total enlistment plan, which will be the first major project of the neighborhood groups.

Thursday night the education commission and all Sunday school teachers will meet with chairman Russell Hardick. A special project which this commission is sponsoring, is the creation of a church reference library for all the commissions and committees of the church.

Mrs. Vera Van Tassel reports that the Sunday School Cradle Roll Nursery Home Department is growing rapidly, with one baby being born into a church home nearly every week.

Local Chapter To View Slides Of DAR Museum

A special program of color slides of the Daughters of the American Revolution Museum at Washington, D. C., will be presented at the Saugerties DAR Chapter meeting Wednesday 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Marchant, 68 Main Street.

Sigma Club of Saugertes High School made its annual trip to New York last weekend.

Forty-three members and guests of the club traveled by Mountain View Bus to Hayden Planetarium where they saw the "New Skies for New York" program. Under the leadership of their adviser, Miss Leona Hogan and the business manager of the school Patrick Rodden, these Sigma Club girls made the trip: Brenda Berzal, Carole Berzal, Ann Brice, Mary Brice, Pamela Davis, Donna Doud, Susan Fast, Joan Faulkner, Dale Ferraro, Karen Fous, Carolyn Halpert, Caroline Hanson, Pamela Hargreave, Linda Iaonne, Mary Iannotti, Sara Imhoff, Karen Jacobs, Judith Kovac, Arlene Krom, Erika Launer, Jill Lezette, Myrna Lievre, Judith Leskko, Kristin Matthews, Nancy Misasi, Judith Osterhoudt, Sharon Patterson, Doris Post, Nancy Quackenbush, Denise Rethier, Margaret Rightmyer, Jeanne Rivenberg, Patricia Sasso, Susan Schirmer, Gail Sharrett, Donna Sperl, Patricia Tiano and Marylee Seither.

Sawyer Debaters Take Part in UN Model Sessions

Nearly 80 schools from New York City, Upstate New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire attended the third annual session.

Friday's sessions were opened at the United Nations committee rooms with a welcome from Mayor Wagner and an address by Dr. Tsiang, Chinese representative on the Security Council. During the 12 hours of legislative action nearly 400 recommendations or resolutions were considered by the Student General Assembly on 21 related committees.

George Popowicz was Nicaraguan delegate to the General Assembly. Robert Francello played a prominent role in the disarmament committee including a genuine clash with the Russian delegate. Ronald Smith serving in the political committee became a leader in Pan-American Bloc caucus meetings. Charles Hall served on the special political committee, Hannah McLennan on the social-humanitarian committee and Paul Kruger on the legal committee.

Highlight of the convention which ran Friday, Saturday and Sunday was the banquet. The feature speakers of the evening were Arkady Sobolev, chief delegate of the USSR and Alexander Quaison-Sachey, chief delegate of Ghana.

Khrush Fails: Adenauer

TOKYO (AP)—German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today took his first public notice of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's current campaign to break the alliance between France and West Germany. Adenauer said the Soviet Premier had tried—and failed—to stir up French distrust against the Germans.

Earlier today, in a speech to the Japanese Diet, Adenauer said the battle against communism can only be effective if fought on the spiritual and ideological level.

Some American tourists had arrived in England ready to live up to the proverbial stories about American tourists. As one of the conducted trips drove past Grosvenor House the guide pointing it out said:

"That is the town house of the Duke of Westminister, one of our largest landed proprietors."

A pretty girl on the second seat looked up in sudden enthusiasm. "Oh!" she cried. "Who landed him?"

Gretchen—What's the matter with that guy?

Susan—He is complaining to his wife that his stenographer doesn't understand him.
